BANDITS FORCE GIRL TO DRIVE HOLD-UP TOUR

Kidnap Woman From Wealthy Escort; Use As "Blind"

EVANSTON, Ill., May 2.—Within a stone's throw of the home of Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, two bandits kidnaped pretty Dolores Bannon from her wealthy escort today and forced her to drive them on the gold coast residential district.

The two holdup men, using a revolver they had taken from a service prize-winning Evanston patrolman, seized Miss Bannon, 22, while she sat in an expensive coupe on the Lake Drive awaiting her escort, Clayton Carr Sherman, wealthy paper company president, who had left the automobile to retrieve his hat blown off by the wind.

Sherman and Miss Bannon were returning from a theater in Chicago. The young man said he saw the two men approach the coupe but thought they were policemen. Before he could return to the car, the two men had overpowered Miss Bannon and had disappeared with the car.

Four hours later, the young woman stumbled up the steps of the Sherman home where young Sherman lives with his father. She collapsed after telling her story.

She said the two men surprised her in the coupe and shoved a revolver against her, ordering her not to scream.

"We're stick up men," one of them said. "We want you for a blind so the cops won't stop us. Do what we tell you and we won't hurt you," Miss Bannon said.

"The revolver, they told me, they took from an Evanston policeman Tuesday night," Police said the officer was Albert Carr, who was robbed of his star and gun. "I asked them not to hold anyone up, but they just laughed," she said. They drove alongside a parked car in Oak Park, a suburb, and robbed a man and woman of $4.

ACQUIT WIDOW OF SLAIN MAN

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 2.—Mrs. Gladys Foster Beardslee, pretty young widow of Oliver Beardslee, elderly Stratford eccentric, was absolved of criminal responsibility in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband a week ago, in a finding returned today by Coroner John L. Phelan.

The coroner found Beardslee died as result of his own act. Beardslee was found shot to death in his home at Stratford. Mrs. Beardslee maintained her husband had shot himself after a quarrel with her.

The finding reversed the testimony concerning the drinking and quarrelling in Beardslee's Stratford home just prior to the shooting. "It was shown by competent expert testimony that the deceased, being a left-handed man, could have inflicted the fatal wound himself," Phelan's finding declared.

GOVERNOR ORDERS PROBE OF DRY RAID

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—A full investigation of a dry raid on the home of the Rev. John L. Cooper, pastor of the Union Rescue Mission in Lorain last night, was ordered by Governor Cooper today upon receipt of telegram of protest from Rev. Cooper.

The raid was reported to have been led by State Dry Agent John Cole who was suspended from the prohibition department yesterday. The governor turned Cooper's protest over to the dry office with a request that "a full and thorough investigation" be made, and that a report be made to him.

STUDENT MISSING

WOOSTER, May 2.—Wooster College officials and police here today asked Pittsburgh police to start search for Marvin Rife, 20, of Marion, O., sophomore, who has been missing since last Friday when he left here to visit a girl friend in Pittsburgh. The girl notified college officials that Rife left Saturday night to return here.

RIVALRY OVER GIRL BLAMED FOR MURDER OF SCHOOL ATHLETE

Youth Warned To Avoid Girl Found Shot To Death

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 2.—Bitter rivalry for the hand of a girl whom he had been warned to stay away from, was believed today to have been responsible for the murder of William Wright, 18, Wheelersburg High School student and star athlete whose bullet-riddled body was found near Wheelersburg yesterday.

Young Wright, the son of a clothing salesman, had been warned to cease attention to the young woman in the neighborhood but he disregarded the warning and a week ago engaged in several fights with another suitor, according to county officials.

The youth was shot down at close range, apparently while arguing with someone whom he encountered while walking home from a church entertainment. The body, riddled by shotgun pellets, was dragged to a chopper's block on the Ernest Marsh farm near Powellville village. Marsh discovered the tragedy.

Wright was an all-county baseball star and excelled in other sports. An arrest was expected today although police have declined to reveal the names of the girl and the suitor believed responsible for the boy's death.

This is an increase of nine over February and twenty-five more than reported for March of last year.

Non-fatal accidents also increased with a total of 29,502, an increase of 3,000.

FATAL INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS GAIN

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—Fatal industrial accidents again increased in Ohio during March, 101 claims being filed with the state industrial commission for workmen's compensation, Thomas P. Kearns, superintendent of the safety division, reported today.

This is an increase of nine over February and twenty-five more than reported for March of last year.

Non-fatal accidents also increased with a total of 29,502, an increase of 3,000.

YOUTH DROWNED

CLEVELAND, O., May 2.—Julius Price, 12, was drowned here late yesterday when he fell from a raft which he and companions were playing upon. The body was recovered. The drowning was the second recorded here in a week.

Used Girl Decoys; Cole Raids Home Of Minister

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—A warrant for the arrest of State Dry Agent Edward Little on a "contributing to delinquency" charge, was expected to be issued today by Prosecutor Russell Cunningham of Lancaster.

The warrant will be issued, it was said, in connection with Little's alleged use of girl decoys in apprehending Lancaster liquor law violators.

Another warrant may be issued for Dry Agent John Cole who with Little, has been suspended from the state prohibition department pending investigation of the charge.

Use of the girl decoys was brought out in a hearing before United States Commissioner Joseph Horner here Tuesday when Carrie Walton and Katherine Grunton, both eighteen, of Lancaster, testified they "purchased liquor" for the agents and accompanied them on a trip to Athens.

Subsequent investigation, according to Prosecutor Cunningham, revealed that other girls were used similarly.

The delinquency charge against Little was made in an affidavit filed in the Fairfield County juvenile court last night by Luther Conrad, father of Helen Conrad, 16, of Amanda, who was said to have accompanied Little.

At the same time Prosecutor Cunningham said he had been informed that Little and Cole "went on numerous parties" with Lancaster girls "and supplied them with wine" while they were working as under-cover agents in Lancaster last February.

The names of nine girls, most of them high school students, have been brought into the investigation thus far.

The Conrad girl's father charges specifically that Little supplied wine at a party his daughter attended.

Cunningham, in addition, said he possesses evidence that other girls were given wine at apartment and hotel parties.

Little and Cole appeared in Lancaster last February, posing as photographers.

Several liquor raids resulted and it was when two of the prisoners

GOVERNOR BLAMES NEWSPAPERS OIL FIRM, FOR CHARGES

Long Claims "Gang" Back Of Impeachment Attack

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 2.—An alliance of newspapers and Standard Oil money is the moving force behind the impeachment charges pending against him in the Louisiana senate, Governor Huey P. Long charged before a large crowd that packed the Athenaeum and an audience of radio listeners last night.

Referring to the "old ring" of politicians whom he blamed for the move against him, the governor declared its leaders had been the ruin of the city and state. He said he drew their wrath when he refused the leadership of an amalgamation of political forces organized to win control of a thirty million dollar bond issue.

"I would rather be impeached than go back on my promises to the people of this state," Governor Long declared. "There have been unfounded rumors that I was going to resign. When you hear that Huey P. Long resigned, you will know that he died that day."

AKRON, O., May 2.—The young man found hacked to death in a shack on the Kenmore dump yesterday may have been James Whitehurst, address unknown, police today believed.

The man had been killed with an ax, then robbed. Two men known to have been near the dump at the time are held for questioning. One of them is a demented Mexican.

TORCH SLAYER

Husband of torch victim found near Greenburg, Westchester County, New York. Earl Francis Peacock, 21, radio repairman of Mount Vernon, N. Y., confesses murder, police say. He had been estranged since February from the victim, Mrs. Dorothy Heinzelman Peacock, 20.

SEEK TWO SUSPECTS WANTED IN MURDER OF CINCINNATI MAN

Widow Of Victim Swears Warrants For Suspects

CINCINNATI, O., May 2.—Two warrants charging murder were sworn out here today in connection with the killing of August Bruck, 34, former lieutenant of the ex-convict, George Remus, who was found shot to death in a room in the Gibson Hotel here yesterday.

The warrants were obtained by Bruck's wife, Lottie, of Newport, Ky., and named Joseph Plunkett, son of a former Chicago police captain, and a man known as Edward D. Hall of Ottawa, Kansas.

Bruck was killed in a room rented Monday by Plunkett, and the two, with Hall, are known to have held a conference or party in the room a few hours before the murder.

Police in Chicago and other cities have been asked to help apprehend the men who are believed to have conducted handbook operations on a large scale.

John Monahan, 30, a salesman who was with the three men until 8 p. m. Tuesday, was liberated under $1,000 bond today as a material witness. Officers said they were satisfied Monahan had nothing to do with the killing.

A dispute over financial matters is believed to have led up to the murder. Bruck was well known here and was an aide of Remus when the latter operated here several years ago.

DECIDE WINNER IN BEST PELT CONTEST

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—O. H. Blackberry of High Divide, Wyo., was announced today as the winner of first prize of $1,000 in the annual "best pelt" contest conducted by fur dealers of the United States and Canada under auspices of the Animal Trap Company of America.

Blackberry's pelt, among more than 50,000,000 taken during the 1928-29 season, was that of a huge, Lobo wolf. A humpie skunk, trapped by Arthur Lowell, Franklinville, N. Y., was a raccoon, captured by Everett Powers of Warren, O., received second and third honors, respectively.

AUTO KILLS CHILD

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—Evelyn Harden, aged 3 and one-half, was killed here yesterday when she was run down by an automobile in front of her home. The driver of the machine was exonerated.

BERLIN COMMUNISTS PROPOSE STRIKE TO PROTEST KILLINGS

BERLIN, May 3.—Berlin communists made plans today to call on the workers for a general strike in protest against the May Day incidents in which ten were killed and many injured.

The communists prepared for protest meetings on Thursday and Friday nights in closed halls.

It was announced officially today that 166 were injured in the disturbances of yesterday and last night, including thirteen women and twenty-five policemen. A total of 1,000 were arrested.

STORMS CONTINUE TO HARASS SOUTHWEST; MANY DEAD, INJURED

Blizzards Follow Tornadoes And Rain Storms

CHICAGO, May 2.—Tornadoes, snow, rain and cold affected a major part of the western section of the United States today.

Recurring tornadoes in the south and southwest were reported to have killed six persons and injured at least fifty in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Georgia.

The Rocky Mountain region was swept by a heavy snowstorm, following in the wake of last week's blizzard which isolated several Wyoming towns. Rain and melting snow swelled rivers and creeks and took out the Fendelsen reservoir dam near Briggsdale, Colo., and threatened the Ross reservoir dam nearby which guards the towns of Fosston, Kuer, Cornish and Barnsville, Montana and Wyoming reported heavy snows and rains.

Minnesota and northwest states reported no snow and rains while the great lakes region and the Mississippi Valley, already menaced by floods, shivered under a sudden drop of temperature.

Georgia storms centered near Waynesboro and Lagrange where three persons were reported killed, and several injured.

Texas bore the brunt of the latest southwest tornado disturbances. A storm from the north-west struck Dallas, Tex., late yesterday, wrecking several buildings and crippling traffic. Continuing southeast the storm swept Frankston, demolishing several residences and injuring five persons. Jefferson and Bullard also reported damage from the twister.

In northern Arkansas and southeast Missouri the towns of Dagmar, Fort Smith and Brinkley, Ark., and Leadwood and Flat River, Mo., were struck by cyclonic winds. One persons was killed at Brinkley, four were injured at Fort Smith and several minor injuries were reported at Dagmar and Brinkley.

Hichita and Morris, Okla., reported four injuries and considerable property damage from a tornado which swept a mile-wide path through that section last night. The cyclonic winds were reported to have struck in the vicinity of Herrin, Ill., damaging crops.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 2.—Red Cross workers at Brinkley, Ark., today reported six known dead in the vicinity of Wheatley and Eden, Ark., from several small tornadoes which lashed that district late yesterday.

Scores of injured were taken to Brinkley on special trains from Eden and Wheatley. Property damage was extensive.

Reports here revealed the storms had struck in widely scattered sections of the state. All wires between Memphis and Little Rock were down and it was impossible to obtain an accurate check of damage in western sections of the state.

Western Union and Bell Telephone Company office here reported tornadoes had hit near Fort Smith, San Prairie and Burton in western Arkansas, but details were lacking.

Unconfirmed reports said more than twenty persons had been injured at San Prairie and Burton. A road camp was wiped out at the latter place, the report said.

ELECTION BOARD TO ORGANIZE SOON

No date has been fixed for the annual organization meeting of the Greene County Board of Elections.

The board must meet by May 10, under the law, for the purpose of electing a chief deputy and clerk.

Present officers of the board are J. N. Wolford, Yellow Springs, Republican, retiring board member, chief deputy, and R. E. Dunkel, Democrat, clerk.

SUCCEEDS CARRY

CHICAGO, May 2.—David A. Crawford, executive vice president of the Pullman Company, was elected president of the company at a meeting of the board of directors in New York today. It was announced at Pullman headquarters here, He succeeds Edward S. Carry who died last week.

The accident occurred near Maturity on the Youngstown Sharon road. Cyrus Hendricks, 28, who was with the boy, was seriously injured but is expected to recover.

The car is believed to have skidded on the wet pavement.

SON OF PUBLISHER AUTO CRASH VICTIM

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 2.—Byron Williams, 18 year old son of the publisher of the Youngstown Journal, was killed early today when his automobile left a highway and crashed into a telephone pole.

The accident occurred near Maturity on the Youngstown Sharon road. Cyrus Hendricks, 28, who was with the boy, was seriously injured but is expected to recover.

She Was Too Frank

Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett of Astoria, N. Y., who, as a young mother wrote a treatise on sex education for her sons, now faces a heavy fine or jail sentence for sending obscene literature through the mails. The specific charge being that she mailed the pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life," to a postal inspector in Virginia.

Her husband, working in a nearby field, saw her and when she realized she was observed, she turned to the house, locked all the doors and drowned the infant in a tub holding five or six gallons of water.

Her first suicide attempt was then to swallow some antiseptic tablets in the belief they were poison. When the tablets had no ill effect, she said to have attempted in some manner to hang herself. Failing in this, she made a third attempt to end her life by firing a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle above her heart. The bullet missed the heart and passed through her body.

Her husband either heard the shot fired or became suspicious and returned to the house, only to find the doors locked. He called to Charles Flertine, a neighbor, who was working in a field, and they broke into the house.

Dr. L. L. Taylor, Yellow Springs, was summoned and Mrs. Hotopp was brought to Espey Hospital. Physicians said that she is conscious but that there is practically no chance for her recovery.

Mrs. Hotopp left a note addressed to her husband in which she is said to have declared that he was in no way to blame for what had occurred.

In the opinion of Dr. Paul Espey Mrs. Hotopp was suffering from acute mental trouble or puerperal insanity which sometimes follows child birth. The imaginary belief that she could not get well is believed to have been the cause of her act.

Mrs. Hotopp was before marriage Miss Margaret Durst and they have one other child a six-year-old girl.

Coroner Chambliss announced that no inquest would be held pending the outcome of Mrs. Hotopp's condition. If she lives he declared it was probable a charge would have to be filed against her.

WOMAN IN HOSPITAL HERE AFTER TRYING TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Death Is Expected; Charges Depend On Recovery

Because of an imaginary belief that she was suffering from an incurable ailment, Mrs. Margaret Hotopp, 30, wife of Henry Hotopp, farmer, drowned her two-months-old baby in a tub of water and then made three attempts to commit suicide at her home at Byron, O., one and one-half miles east of Osborn at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound above the heart, Mrs. Hotopp was brought to Espey Hospital, this city, where physicians hold no hope for her recovery.

The baby, Edward Richard, would have been two months old May 19. In the opinion of Coroner Frank M. Chambliss, who examined the body, the baby was undoubtedly drowned inasmuch as there were no marks to indicate the infant had been killed before being placed in the water.

Coroner Chambliss learned that the mother with the baby in her arms, went out into the back yard where there was a watering trough Wednesday morning, apparently, he said, with the intention of drowning her child there.

Her husband, working in a nearby field, saw her and when she realized she was observed, she turned to the house, locked all the doors and drowned the infant in a tub holding five or six gallons of water.

Her first suicide attempt was then to swallow some antiseptic tablets in the belief they were poison. When the tablets had no ill effect, she said to have attempted in some manner to hang herself. GOVERNOR BLAMES NEWSPAPERS OIL FIRM, FOR CHARGES

Long Claims "Gang" Back Of Impeachment Attack

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 2.—An alliance of newspapers and Standard Oil money is the moving force behind the impeachment charges pending against him in the Louisiana senate, Governor Huey P. Long charged before a large crowd that packed the Athenaeum and an audience of radio listeners last night.

Referring to the "old ring" of politicians whom he blamed for the move against him, the governor declared its leaders had been the ruin of the city and state. He said he drew their wrath when he refused the leadership of an amalgamation of political forces organized to win control of a thirty million dollar bond issue.

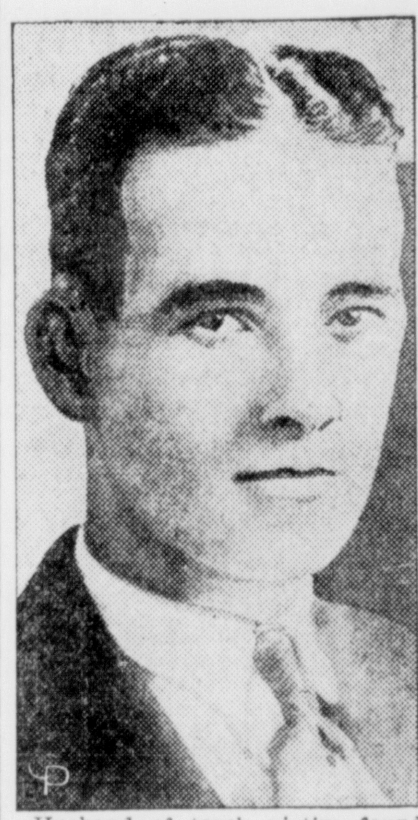

"I would rather be impeached than go back on my promises to the people of this state," Governor Long declared. "There have been unfounded rumors that I was going to resign. When you hear that Huey P. Long resigned, you will know that he died that day."

BELIEVE IDENTITY OF VICTIM LEARNED

AKRON, O., May 2.—The young man found hacked to death in a shack on the Kenmore dump yesterday may have been James Whitehurst, address unknown, police today believed.

The man had been killed with an ax, then robbed. Two men known to have been near the dump at the time are held for questioning. One of them is a demented Mexican.

TORCH SLAYER

Husband of torch victim found near Greenburg, Westchester County, New York, Earl Francis Peacock, 21, radio repairman of Mount Vernon, N. Y., confesses murder, police say. He had been estranged since February from the victim, Mrs. Dorothy Heinzelman Peacock, 20.

SEEK TWO SUSPECTS WANTED IN MURDER OF CINCINNATI MAN

Widow Of Victim Swears Warrants For Suspects

CINCINNATI, O., May 2.—Two warrants charging murder were sworn out here today in connection with the killing of August Bruck, 34, former lieutenant of the ex-convict, George Remus, who was found shot to death in a room in the Gibson Hotel here yesterday.

The warrants were obtained by Bruck's wife, Louie, of New York, and named Joseph Plunkett, son of a former Chicago police captain, and a man known as Edward D. Hall of Ottawa, Kansas.

Bruck was killed in a room rented Monday by Plunkett, and the two, with Hall, are known to have held a conference or party in the room a few hours before the murder.

Police in Chicago and other cities have been asked to help apprehend the men who are believed to have conducted handbook operations on a large scale.

John Monahan, 30, a salesman who was with the three men until 8 p. m. Tuesday, was liberated under $1,000 bond today as a material witness. Officers said they were satisfied Monahan had nothing to do with the killing.

A dispute over financial matters is believed to have led up to the murder. Bruck was well known here and was an aide of Remus when the latter operated here several years ago.

DECIDE WINNER IN BEST PELT CONTEST

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—O. H. Blackberry of High Divide, Wyo., was announced today as the winner of first prize of $1,000 in the annual "best pelt" contest.

Unconfirmed reports said more than twenty persons had been injured at San Prairie and Burton. A road camp was wiped out at the latter place, the report said.

ELECTION BOARD TO ORGANIZE SOON

No date has been fixed for the annual organization meeting of the Greene County Board of Elections. The board must meet by May 10, under the law, for the purpose of electing a chief deputy and clerk.

Present officers of the board are: J. N. Wolford, Yellow Springs, Republican, retiring board member, chief deputy, and R. E. Dunkel, Democrat, clerk.

BERLIN COMMUNISTS PROPOSE STRIKE TO PROTEST KILLINGS

BERLIN, May 2.—Berlin communists made plans today to call on the workers for a general strike in protest against the May Day incidents in which ten were killed and many injured.

The communists prepared for protest meetings on Thursday and Friday nights in closed halls.

STORMS CONTINUE TO HARASS SOUTHWEST; MANY DEAD, INJURED

Blizzards Follow Tornadoes And Rain Storms

CHICAGO, May 2.—Tornadoes, snow, rain and cold affected a major part of the western section of the United States today.

Recurring tornadoes in the south and southwest were reported to have killed six persons and injured at least fifty in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Georgia.

The Rocky Mountain region was swept by a heavy snowstorm, following in the wake of last week's blizzard which isolated several Wyoming towns. Rain and melting snow swelled rivers and creeks and took out the Finselsen reservoir dam near Briggsdale, Colo., and threatened the Ross reservoir dam nearby which guards the towns of Fosston, Kiefer, Cornish and Barnesville, Montana and Wyoming reported heavy snows and rains.

Minnesota and northwest states reported no snow and rains while the great lakes region and the Mississippi Valley, already menaced by floods, shivered under a sudden drop of temperature.

Georgia storms centered near Waynesboro and Lagrange where three persons were reported killed, and several injured.

Texas bore the brunt of the latest southwest tornado disturbances. A storm from the north-west struck Dallas, Tex., late yesterday, wrecking several buildings and crippling traffic. Continuing southeast the storm swept Frankston, demolishing several residences and injuring five persons. Jefferson and Bullard also reported damage from the twister.

In northern Arkansas and southeast Missouri the towns of Dagmar, Fort Smith and Brinkley, Ark., and Leadwood and Flat River, Mo., were struck by cyclonic winds. One person was killed at Brinkley, four were injured at Fort Smith and several minor injuries were reported at Dagmar and Brinkley.

Hicks and York, Okla., reported four injuries and considerable property damage from a tornado which swept a mile-wide path through that section last night. The cyclonic winds were reported to have struck in the vicinity of Herrin, Ill., damaging crops.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 2.—Red Cross workers at Brinkley, Ark., today reported six known dead in the vicinity of Wheatley and Eden, Ark., from several small tornadoes which lashed that district late yesterday.

Scores of injured were taken to Brinkley on special trains from Eden and Wheatley. Property damage was extensive.

Reports here revealed the storms had struck in widely scattered sections of the state. A wire between Memphis and Little Rock were down and it was impossible to obtain an accurate check of damage in western sections of the state.

Western Union and Bell Telephone Company office here reported tornadoes had hit near Fort Smith, San Prairie and Burton in western Arkansas, but details were lacking.

Unconfirmed reports said more than twenty persons had been injured at San Prairie and Burton. A road camp was wiped out at the latter place, the report said.

SON OF PUBLISHER AUTO CRASH VICTIM

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 2.—Byron Williams, 18 year old son of the publisher of the Youngstown Journal, was killed early today when his automobile left a highway and crashed into a telephone pole.

The accident occurred near Marysville on the Youngstown Sharon road. Cyrus Hendricks, 28, who was with the boy, was seriously injured but is expected to recover.

The car is believed to have skidded on the wet pavement.

SUCCEEDS CARRY

CHICAGO, May 2.—David A. Crawford, executive vice president of the Pullman Company, was elected president of the company at a meeting of the board of directors in New York today. It was announced at Pullman headquarters here. He succeeds Edward S. Carry who died last week.

BELIEVE REVOLT IN MEXICO LESSON FOR REBELS IN FUTURE

Gil Thinks Failure Will Consolidate Country

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—In spite of the bloodshed and heavy financial cost of the Mexican revolution, President Emilio Portes Gil believes the revolt will be beneficial to the country by consolidating it more strongly, he told the United Press in an interview.

Consenting to discuss the possible effects of the revolution as news from the battle front told of the gradual breaking up of the revolt, the president said he believed the failure of Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar has lessened the possibility of other civil wars in the future.

The whereabouts of Gen. Escobar, rebel commander in chief, were not known today, but a dispatch from the El Paso consulate said it was understood he had left Agua Prieta with his staff, heading towards the mountains and apparently hoping to cross into the United States.

Government officials indicated they would accept the flight of Escobar as a sign of the virtual end of the revolt, since they did not believe rebel soldiers would fight without the urging of a leader of Escobar's ability. Other leaders already have fled across the international boundary.

"The official attitude towards the church will continue the same as now," Portes Gil said in reply to a question as to whether any change on the religious question might be expected. "As repeatedly stated the government is not persecuting any religions. The Catholic Church can resume services when it desires, the only obligation being that it obey the laws."

Portes Gil said he did not believe the Catholic Church as an organization, had the slightest connection with Gen. Escobar's revolt.

"It was exclusively military, based entirely on the petty ambitions or corrupt chieftains," he said.

The revolution's cost was estimated to date at about $7,500,000 excluding damage to railway property.

Plutarco Elias Calles, commanding the federal armies, was expected to move his headquarters from Cajeme to Empalm, near Guaymas, today.

Approximately 2,000 rebels commanded by Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, Gen. Yucupico and Gen. Jicinto Trevino, fled in confusion towards Agua Prieta after a fight with federals at Los Asnoques Monday, dispatches received here last night said.

She Was Too Frank

Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett of Astoria, N. Y., who, as a young mother wrote a treatise on sex education for her sons, now faces a heavy fine or jail sentence for sending obscene literature through the mails. The specific charge being that she mailed the pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life," to a postal inspector in Virginia.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE STANDARDS FOR LAW PRACTICE

Bar Associations Recommend Code For Attorneys

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—The question of additional rules and standards to define and govern the practice of law in Ohio, rested with the supreme court today.

The matter was submitted to the court by representatives of various bar associations who were largely in agreement.

A petition from the Cleveland Bar Association opened the question several months ago. The court then asked for specific recommendations and invited other bar associations to participate.

Paul Howland, of the Cleveland association; John A. Cline of the state bar association; and George W. Ritter of the Toledo association, addressed the court in support of the formal recommendations made by their respective associations, relative to solicitation and general ethics.

Max Goodman, B. A. Feldman, and Joseph L. Stern of the Cuyahoga County Bar Association spoke in behalf of the general recommendations based on the code of ethics of the American and Ohio State Bar Associations.

They then submitted proposals to reach agents of lawyers; to define the practice of law; and to establish proper and certain penalties for violations of professional regulations.

PADDLE IS STILL IN STYLE

CLEVELAND, May 2.—Corporal punishment, with restrictions, will continue to guide the destinies, or at least guide the trousers, of obstreperous Parma Village school boys.

Use of a wooden paddle, four inches wide and a half inch thick at the proper time, and place, has the approval of the Parma school board.

This was made plain today after members of the board commended Wayne P. Douglas, principal of Schaaf Junior High School for observance of rules of the school.

Douglas told of paddling the boy on April 9, in the presence of a member of the school staff. "That is required in 'school rules,'" when the boy was summoned for a second paddling a week later, he went home instead, Douglas said. Complaint against Douglas was made when he threatened to have the boy haled into juvenile court.

IDENTIFY BODY

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 2.—A body found in the Ohio River here Sunday by fishermen was identified today by Mrs. John Hammond, of Charleston, W. Va., as that of her son John, 19, who disappeared from home November 1923.

WOMAN IN HOSPITAL HERE AFTER TRYING TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Death Is Expected; Charges Depend On Recovery

Because of an imaginary belief that she was suffering from an incurable ailment, Mrs. Margaret Hotopp, 30, wife of Henry Hotopp, farmer, drowned her two-month-old baby in a tub of water and then made three attempts to commit suicide at her home at Byron, O., one and one-half miles east of Osborn at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound above the heart, Mrs. Hotopp was brought to Espey Hospital, this city, where physicians hold no hope for her recovery.

The baby, Edward Richard, would have been two months old May 19. In the opinion of Coroner Frank M. Chambliss, who examined the body, the baby was undoubtedly drowned inasmuch as there were no marks to indicate the infant had been killed before being placed in the water.

Coroner Chambliss learned that the mother with the baby in her arms, went into the back yard where there was a watering trough Wednesday morning, apparently, he said, with the intention of drowning her child there.

Her husband, working in a nearby field, saw her and when she returned to the house, locked all the doors and drowned the infant in a tub holding five or six gallons of water.

Her first suicide attempt was then to swallow some antiseptic tablets in the belief they were poison. When the tablets had no ill effect, she is said to have attempted in some manner to hang herself. Falling in this, she made a third attempt to end her life by firing a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle above her heart. The bullet missed the heart and passed through her body.

Her husband either heard the shot fired or became suspicious and returned to the house, only to find the doors locked. He called to Charles Fierstone, a neighbor, who was working in a field, and they broke into the house.

Dr. L. L. Taylor, Yellow Springs, was summoned and Mrs. Hotopp was brought to Espey Hospital. Physicians said that she is conscious but that there is practically no chance for her recovery.

Mrs. Hotopp left a note addressed to her husband in which she is said to have declared that he was in no way to blame for what had occurred.

In the opinion of Dr. Paul Espey Mrs. Hotopp was suffering from acute mental trouble or puerperal insanity which sometimes follows child birth. The imaginary belief that she could not get well is believed to have been the cause of her act.

Mrs. Hotopp was before marriage Miss Margaret Durst and they have one other child a six-year-old girl.

Coroner Chambliss announced that no inquest would be held pending the outcome of Mrs. Hotopp's condition. If she lives he declared it was probable a charge would have to be filed against her.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS IN SESSION

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—The tenth annual convention of the Ohio League of Women Voters was called to order here at noon today, with the state's revised election code up for discussion.

Members of the association have been making a careful study of the revisions which are embodied in a bill passed by the recent legislature and signed by Governor Cooper. The measure becomes effective in sixty days.

The initial session was featured by a luncheon prior to which pre-convention board meetings were held.

The convention will close tomorrow afternoon.

INDIANA TOWN HITS AT ANCIENT SUNDAY BLUE LAWS IN DRIVE

COLUMBUS, Ind., May 2.—With four men under arrest and the possibility that twenty-eight others may face charges, this city is in the thick of a "blue Sunday" war. Trouble began when Frank J. Rembusch, Shelbyville, owner of two theaters here, opened one of them on a Sunday. Fifteen minutes later he was arrested, charged with violating the state blue law, as was his son, Truman Rembusch, and Donald Wagner. In retaliation, Rembusch filed charges of Sabbath desecration against O. B. Anderson, a city councilman and druggist, accused by Rembusch of selling tobacco on Sunday. The theater owner has a list of twenty-eight other persons he claimed violated the blue law. The present controversy recalls a bitter fight against Sunday here two years ago. At that time, a police officer broke down the door of a motion picture machine booth to arrest the operator. Anderson took up a collection to aid in prosecution of the persons arrested.

Ralph H. Spauld is waging the legal part of the fight for Rembusch. He indicated that if Prosecuting Attorney William H. Dobbs refuses to issue affidavits in the other twenty-eight cases, a mandamus suit may be filed.

Rembusch's Statement
Rembusch, in a statement commenting on the "blue law" situation here, says in part:

"We have made during the last five years a careful survey of what the people of Columbus want and know that 85 per cent feel that clean, wholesome amusement and recreation is a necessity on Sunday. We will go further and say that 90 per cent of the people of Bartholomew County will be found riding in automobiles, playing cards down by the creeks in the summer time, operating the radio or player piano or in some way finding happiness and diversion on Sunday from strenuous labor of today."

"Three years ago we opened the Crump theater on Sunday and were interfered with by the police officials. We were brought to trial in the city court and lost the case because officials called for jury service wives of the clergy and only persons who never go to a show even on a week-day and want every joy suppressed."

"We took the case to the circuit court and in a few minutes were acquitted by citizens who by their verdict proved that clean, wholesome amusement is necessary and that the people of Columbus want it and they should have what they want and need."

CREAMERIES ELECT
P. E. Adams of Dayton and George Lange of Piqua, have been chosen chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Dayton district of the Ohio Association of Creamery Owners and Managers. The district is composed of Darke, Miami, Champaign, Clark, Greene, Montgomery and Preble Counties.

NEW POULTRY HOUSE

The Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster has just published a free special circular giving a description and plans of its New Adaptable Poultry House. In announcing the publication D. C. Kennard of the Station says, "New or revised plans for poultry houses are always in order, because there is always room for improvement. The Ohio Experiment Station first designed and published plans for the Adaptable Poultry House in 1922. Many of these houses have been built and have proven satisfactory. However certain features have proven either unnecessary or undesirable. The revised plans for the 'New Adaptable' are the result of six years use and study of this type of poultry house. The new design of house has been used during the past two years with highly satisfactory results."

Some of the special features of the new design are the windows, their arrangement and manipulation for ventilation and weather protection. Special ventilators are provided through the front and rear rafter spaces, permitting the closing of all windows and open front spaces during severe cold or windy weather. The house is ceiled with insulating board back of roosting quarters, and under rafters all the way to the front so as to keep it warmer in winter, and cooler in summer. The width of house may be 20 or 24 feet, as preferred.

SCOUT NEWS

All patrols are urged to have a full attendance at the regular meeting of Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America, at the Scout Cabin at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Plans for a hike are being arranged by the troop committee and will be discussed at this meeting. Announcement is made that a committee composed of Fred Lang, Purl Cox and C. F. Mollage has laid out a baseball diamond on the Scout reservation north of Cox Memorial Athletic Field and it is being put into shape for use soon.

Mrs. McCormick Defends Small Town Folks

By LILIAN CAMPBELL
 Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, congresswoman-at-large from Illinois, has come forward to defend the people of the small American town from the sobriquet of "hicks" and "babbitts."

No greater "hicks" can be found than those who live all their lives in large cities, declares Mrs. McCormick. More sculptors, actors, singers and artists have been developed in small communities of the country than in all the big cities combined, she declares.

"Gone is the day," Mrs. McCormick says, "when the concert company or road show, no matter how low-brow its program, can invade and capture the small town. People resent poor caliber programs and immediately ask: 'What is the city trying to put over on us anyhow?'"

In order to meet with the growing demand for artistic expression from the smaller towns of the United States, Mrs. McCormick has organized the Allied Arts Extension which will arrange for ambulatory exhibits of fine arts, handicraft and other artistic exhibitions in the more remote districts of the country.

When not in Washington, Mrs. McCormick lives in Byron, Ill., with a population of about 800.

The general committee sponsoring Mrs. McCormick's new venture, the Allied Arts Extension, includes Otto Kahn, John A. Ryan, Margaret Anglin, Edward A. Bok, Maurice Fels, Mrs. George Horace Lorimer, Henry Morgenthau, Charles M. Schwab, Ida M. Tarbell, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, E. Van Valkenberg, Senator Simeon D. Fess and others.

committee of the Brooklyn bureau of charities, New York. The court, says the committee, should have a separate courthouse, a special place of detention, a special probation staff of investigators and supervisors, and adequate facilities for mental and physical examinations. It should also utilize all social and religious aids in the community, plan for effective co-operation with the police, and have a specially qualified magistrate. Such a court, it is pointed out, is necessary to carry out the important work of crime prevention with boys over 16. The present children's court of New York deals only with children under that age, all over 16 being dealt with by the adult courts. The jurisdiction of the proposed court would cover examination of cases of serious offenses and final disposition of all others.

FACULTY AT SPRING HILL ENJOYS SUPPER

Members of the faculty at Spring Hill enjoyed a covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. M. A. Smith, 412 N. Detroit St., Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lois Van Zant and Miss Frances Teeters were the hostesses of the evening. Following the supper games, contests, readings and music were enjoyed. Those present were: Misses Henrietta Evers, Harriet Keller, Emma Glass, Pauline Gordin, Frances Teeters, Alta Turner, Louise Baldwin, Mrs. Mary Lampert and Mrs. M. A. Smith and Mrs. Van Zant.

Rev. Edward A. McGinty, formerly pastor of St. Augustine Church, Jamestown, O., and now chaplain of Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, is recuperating from an operation performed by Dr. Joseph L. DeCourcy, Cincinnati surgeon at the hospital. Father McGinty's condition has been given as good by hospital attaches.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ENTERTAINS WITH GUEST DAY

The Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church held a Guest Day meeting at the church, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. John Cooper, assisted by Mrs. J. P. White and Mrs. C. M. Spencer were in charge of devotion. A brief program of devotion from other lands was given by Mrs. J. Robert Bryson. "A Great Friend of Africa," meaning David Livingstone, was read by Miss Mary E. Bickett.

Mrs. William Anderson sang a beautiful solo taken from the 23rd psalm. She was accompanied by Mrs. Fannie Moore, Mrs. Buck and Mrs. Paul Espey, guests of the day led in prayer.

Reports from the secretaries were given and were very encouraging. Following a short business session, a playlet "Unto the Least of These," was given. Those taking part were: Mrs. Edward Foust, Mrs. Frank Collins, Mrs. Earl McClelland, Mrs. Guy Hutsler, Mrs. Thomas McClelland, Jr., Mrs. Lee Taylor, Mrs. Graham Bryson, Mrs. Charles Tindall and Mrs. John Van Eaton.

The executive committee served as hostesses. There were sixteen guests and fifty-eight members present. The meeting was closed by reciting the Lord's Prayer.

NIGHT OWL CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Morton, N. King St., entertained the "Night Owl Club" with a card party at the "Iron Lantern," Wednesday evening.

Three tables of five hundred were in play throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder were the high score prize winners. Following the games a delicious salad course was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bogart, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huston and Mr. and Mrs. Morton.

WOMEN'S AID ENJOYS ALL DAY MEETING

The Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania Railroad held an all day meeting at the rooms of the railroad station here Wednesday with guests from Cincinnati, Springfield, Dayton and Spring Valley.

There were about forty-five present. Dinner was served at the noon hour. Cards and sewing were enjoyed during the afternoon. The prize winners were: Mrs. George Rectores, Mrs. John Ryan and Mrs. John O'Connor, Xenia, and Mrs. Alexander of Spring Valley.

Trinity M. E. Church choir will meet for rehearsal Friday evening at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is desired to practice special music for the Sunday morning services, in observance of National Music Week.

Messrs. Forest Galliger, Neil Donovan and William Kennedy, attended the dance given by Dayton Knights at Columbus at the Greystone, Dayton, Wednesday evening.

Mr. James T. McDermott, N. West St., is seriously ill with a complication of diseases.

Mr. and Mrs. David Davis Stetson Road, are announcing the birth of a daughter, Wednesday morning. The baby has been named Beatrice Jean.

Mrs. Elizabeth Whittington, accompanying her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dayart, Dayton, arrived at her home on W. Main St., Tuesday. They motored to Washington, D. C., before returning here from Florida where they spent the past three months.

The St. Agnes Guild of the Episcopal Church will entertain the women of all other churches with a tea and musical program at the Parish House Wednesday afternoon, May 8.

Ralph Matthews, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Matthews, broke his right wrist Tuesday, while cranking an automobile in front of his home. Dr. C. G. McPherson attended the case.

Blackburn's six piece orchestra of this city will furnish music for the May Day to be given at Daugherty's Pavilion at South Charleston Friday evening. The Xenia orchestra will also furnish the music for a popular dance at Washington C. H., next Tuesday. Xenians are invited.

Mrs. Emerson Osman, Washington St., returned home Tuesday after spending a week with her husband, who is employed in Flint, Mich.

TWO ARRESTED AS RESULT OF FIGHT

Cases of John Howard, colored, charged with assault, and a 22-year-old colored boy, accused of being drunk and disorderly, were continued until Saturday morning by Mayor Karl R. Babb Thursday.

Following an altercation Tuesday night in which Howard is alleged to have slapped the youth, the boy's mother appeared at Police Headquarters Thursday and swore out a warrant charging Howard with assaulting her son. The boy did not appear but Howard filed a counter charge of disorderly conduct against him.

Howard did not enter a plea and the mayor continued both cases.

WILL SPEAK HERE

The Rev. E. R. Fulkerson, who has served twenty years as a missionary in Japan, has traveled extensively through the East and has served as United States vice-consul at Nagasaki, will deliver an address at Trinity M. E. Church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening. The public is invited to attend.

CHARLES T. FLYNN, COUSIN OF XENIAN, SUMMONED BY DEATH

Charles Francis Flynn, 51, well-known sportsman and hotel manager, and a first cousin of P. H. Flynn, Xenia manufacturer, died Wednesday at his home in the Hotel Lombardy at New York following a brief illness.

Mr. Flynn was born in Boston. As a young man he went to Florida and was a factor in the development of Florida and Cuba as winter resorts.

In Florida he had charge of the building of the Coral Gables Biltmore Hotel and in Havana he helped H. D. Brown build the Oriental Park race course, with which he later was closely identified as vice president and resident manager of the Havana American Jockey Club.

In 1910 he became associated with the Bowman Biltmore Hotels Corp., of which he was vice president and a director.

He had charge of the development of the Seville Hotel of the Biltmore interests at Havana, of most of the southern hotels of this corporation and during the illness of the president of the company recently, transacted some of the business in connection with the erection of the Biltmore-owned hotel in Dayton.

Mr. Flynn maintained headquarters in New York City, where the Biltmore chain consists of six hotels.

Two years ago P. H. Flynn and son, Fred, this city, were his guests at Havana, Cuba and Mr. Flynn and family also visited him for ten days a year ago at the Commodore Hotel in New York.

Mr. Flynn had not been advised of his cousin's illness nor his death but recalled that Mrs. Alda Flynn, wife of the hotel manager, had been worried about her husband on the occasion of his last visit there because he was accepting so much responsibility. His death is believed to have been indirectly the result of what amounted to a nervous breakdown.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Alda W. Flynn; a daughter, Corliss, attending a school near Boston, and a son, Grant, Flynn, student at Massachusetts Tech at Boston.

While Hayes A. McLean, marshal of Cedarville, was preparing to file charges of resisting an officer and assault against Martin Nooks, 60, colored, and his son, John, 30, this city, county authorities announced Thursday that a confession had been obtained from the younger Nooks admitting that a quantity of wool found in their possession had been stolen by him from Frank Pistick, farmer, living about three miles west of Yellow Springs off the Dayton-Yellow Springs Pike.

The father and son are held in the County Jail pending the filing of charges by Marshal McLean following an attack made by the pair on the officer in an effort to escape after McLean had arrested them in Cedarville Wednesday morning.

Pistick was scheduled to come to Xenia Thursday afternoon and attempt to identify the wool over which the trouble arose when a clerk in the offices of the Cedarville Lumber Co., suspected that the wool they had offered for sale was stolen property and notified the marshal who arrested them and took them to the mayor's office.

Mrs. McCormick Defends Small Town Folks

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

MRS. RUTH Hanna McCormick, congresswoman-at-large from Illinois, has come forward to defend the people of the small American town from the sobriquet of "hicks" and "habbitts."

No greater "hicks" can be found than those who live all their lives in large cities, declares Mrs. McCormick. More sculptors, actors, singers and artists have been developed in small communities of the country than in all the big cities combined, she declares.

"None is the day," Mrs. McCormick says, "when the concert company or road show, no matter how low-brow its program, can invade and capture the small town. People resent poor caliber programs and immediately ask: 'What is the city trying to put over on us anyhow?'"

In order to meet with the growing demand for artistic expression from the smaller towns of the United States, Mrs. McCormick has organized the Brooklyn bureau of charities, New York. The court, says the committee, should have a separate courthouse, a special place of detention, a special staff of investigators and supervisors, and adequate facilities for mental and physical examinations. It should also utilize all social and religious aids in the community, plan for effective co-operation with the police, and have a specially qualified magistrate.

Such a court, it is pointed out, is necessary to carry out the important work of crime prevention with boys over 16. The present children's court of New York deals only with children under that age, all over 16 being dealt with by the adult courts. The jurisdiction of the proposed court would cover examination of cases of serious offenses and final disposition of all others.

The organization of a special boys' court, limited at first to boys 16 to 18 years of age, inclusive, has been recommended by the courts.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SUBMISSION TO GOD—I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.—Micah 7:9.

MORE THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT

It is all very confusing, this effort to be scientific, and to understand the constitution of matter, the nature of the universe, and so on. Take atoms, which recently were explained so satisfactorily.

All material things were made of atoms. An atom was like a solar system, with a nucleus for a sun, and electrons revolving around it like planets. These suns and planets were electric, positive and negative. We could see that. Anybody could. But now Dr. W. F. G. Swan of Philadelphia, addressing the National Academy of Science, hedges.

"We are no longer sure what an atom or electron looks like," he says. "The mechanics of it are not at all plain."

"It may be," says another American scientist, "that there is no electron there, but just an effect which is the same sort as an electron, if it existed, might have."

Which reminds us of the Cheshire Cat in "Alice In Wonderland," which disappeared into thin air, leaving only its grin behind. The electron is that disembodied grin.

EXPORTING BUSINESS IDEAS

Important as America's exports of automobiles, cotton and copper to Europe might be, there are other exports, which do not appear in statistical summaries, of no less significance.

The Acting Commissioner of the American Section of the International Chamber of Commerce reporting from Paris headquarters on world economic progress says:

"American business practices are being imported into Europe in rising volume; installment selling, chain stores, trade advertising, grading and branding of raw materials and foodstuffs, the conversion of labor unions to modern methods of production, the adaptation of factories to mass production and many other practices which in Europe are considered to be typically American. There are even 'business cycle' institutes in the principal countries of Europe organized along American lines."

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

THE STYLIST
The "head stylist" in a big firm that handles women's clothes lives in Paris. She may look over 500 dresses in a day and pick out five that she thinks will appeal to American women. Can one imagine greater responsibility on human shoulders? How would you like the job of deciding what American women will like to wear and what they won't like? Coming home from France, this young woman rates spring colors in their order of popularity as follows: Mimosa, red, blue and white, black, she says, are made of straw and built for bobbed hair.

BUY SOME FURNITURE
University of Chicago investigators report to social agencies that families living in furnished rooms ought to be urged to move into unfurnished flats. Living in furnished rooms is found to be "socially demoralizing, comparatively expensive, and harmful to the health and morale of children."

Young people, just married, will get a far happier start in life if they begin at once to gather around them the makings of their own home.

THE LUXURY TASTE
The taste for luxury on the part of the American citizen has been growing at a marvellous rate. Since the outbreak of the World war our consumption of cigarettes, candy, perfumes, and automobiles has doubled and in some instances quadrupled. Also we read more newspapers and magazines than ever before and college enrollments are three times as great as they used to be. And in 1927 more than $300,000,000 worth of ice cream was eaten.

Just how much do luxuries mean to us? Are they essential to our happiness or are they just a habit?

WHAT COUNTS
George Bernard Shaw, who frequently says something to make us think, says "health and congenial activity make life worth living; any conscious pursuit of happiness and fame is pathological and very pitiful."

NAVAL CONSTRUCTION PROGRAMS DECLARED TO BE WITHOUT EXCUSE

By DR. N. M. BUTLER
President, Columbia University
Nicholas Murray Butler was born at Elizabeth, N. J., April 2, 1862. He received three degrees at Columbia university and has studied in Berlin and Paris. He holds 20 honorary degrees from American and European universities. He began teaching as an assistant philosophy in 1885, and became president of Columbia in 1902, which office he has since held. His home is in New York City.

There is no longer conceivable excuse for competitive programs of naval construction. The declaration contained in the Pact of Paris signed on August 27, 1928, and ratified by the United States senate with only one dissenting vote on January 15 this year brings to an end an era in the world's history which has existed and opens another era of wholly different character and outlook. In the whole world renounces war—that is, forcible attack—as an instrument of national policy, then self-defense, too, as an argument of war, goes the way of all flesh.

The strength of the Pact of Paris is to be found in that characteristic which cynics and legalists have pointed to as its weakness. It is no mere formal legal contract with prescribed sanctions and pains and penalties. It is something far higher and stronger than that. It is a declaration of public purpose made on moral grounds by those responsible and self-determining agents which have heretofore chosen otherwise when they now declare their intention to do. Those who describe this moral act as merely a gesture, truth, honor, chastity, righteousness, in the same terms.

American public opinion has a new and heavy responsibility to bear. It is itself responsible for the Pact of Paris, since without it that pact would not have attracted the favorable opinion and support of the civilized world, nor could it have been ratified by the senate. With that pact before them, the American people must now, both in the sphere of liberty and in the sphere of government, make those expressions and take those steps which will prove their sincerity and the firmness of their purpose. No pledge-breaker must be aided in the pledge-breaking, whether directly or indirectly. All possible instrumentalities for the peaceful settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin, which arise among the signatories to that pact, must be upheld and strengthened both in their prestige and in their practical operation.

The sure way to invite destruction of the Pact of Paris is to suspect that some nation will violate it and to frame national policy under the influence of that suspicion. The sure way to uphold the Pact of Paris is to assume that every signatory nation means to abide by it and to frame national policy under the influence of that assumption.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

When Harrison Fisher listed the points that improve a woman's general attractiveness he put this one second—"the proper use of cosmetics." Which gives to the place of cosmetics a very high rating, indeed.

I believe that it is important—most important—after a woman has seen to the health and good grooming of her skin, for her to consider the right cosmetics she may use to enhance it, and the way she can apply them to bring out her best features, and to minimize her poor ones.

Fortunately good cosmetics act as a protection to the skin as well, so that they have a twofold value for beauty. A fine, pure powder, applied over a creamy powder foundation, with a cream rouge, keeps the skin from weathering. Certain preparations, especially prepared, neutralize the effects of sun and wind, so that they cannot burn the delicate skin. An eye shadow, made on a cream base, likewise protects the thin skin of the eyelids. And the lips are lubricated and kept smooth by a thin, greasy film of lip-salve.

No man need ever fear harming her skin by the continued use of cosmetics, if she chooses them wisely, making sure that her brand is pure. And she may marvelously improve her appearance by their use.

Think of these two things when you are buying and using make-up. The suitability of the cosmetics to you—and their suitability to the occasion for which you will wear them.

In the first case, choose powders and rouges that harmonize with your eyes and hair, and with your natural skin coloring, regardless of what colors you may be wearing. Among the several shades that become you, you will soon be able to choose the particular ones that "go" best with different costume colors.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

(The third of a series of three articles reviewing the economic situation in the United States.)
WASHINGTON. — Government economists and labor leaders may talk all they please about the impossibility of permitting skilled workmen's wages to sink to the semi-skilled level — skill no longer being worth much in this machine age.

Wages show some slight tendency to sag nevertheless. This far, by main strength, organized labor has been fairly successful in preventing any very serious slump; but the load on organized labor's back is only just beginning to be felt.

Increasing unemployment will aggravate the situation mightily fast. Working hours doubtless will be curtailed—at the old rate of pay, or the trades unions will put up a fight. President supposedly has a huge program of public improvement in mind.

Other leftover meat may be used in place of the ham. The potatoes may be creamed on top of the stove and then put in the oven to brown. The menu will serve four or five, as you should allow one or two peppers extra for second helpings.

Today's Recipes
Green Peppers Stuffed With Ham
Six green peppers, one-half cup boiled rice, one-half small onion, chopped, one-half cup cold minced ham, one-third cup milk, two tablespoons crumbs, one tablespoon butter, four tablespoons chopped mushrooms (these may be omitted). Cut tops from peppers, remove seeds and parboil peppers 10 minutes, then drain. Brown onion and mushrooms in one tablespoon of butter. Add ham, rice and sauce, cook three minutes, fill peppers. Cover with crumbs and dot over with remaining butter. Bake 10 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees. Serve on toast with brown sauce.

Coffee Custard—Scald two cups milk with two tablespoons ground coffee, and strain. Beat four eggs lightly and add one-fourth cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla, and the milk. Strain into buttered individual molds, set in pan of hot water and bake until firm.

Suggestions.
Waxing Floor
Before waxing the floor, dust it thoroughly and either wash it or, better still, rub it until bright with a cloth moistened with gasoline or turpentine.

The secret of success in waxing floors is thin coats and much rubbing, so, whether you use liquid or melted wax, give the floor a thin, even coating, rubbing it in lengthwise of the grain of the wood with a soft cloth and follow with a weighted brush. When the wax is thoroughly rubbed in, cover the brush with a piece of carpet or burlap and polish the floor until it reaches the desired luster. If you have no weighted brush use a heavy block or brick wrapped with a thick woolen cloth, old carpet or burlap.

Cottage Cheese Is Nutritious.
Cottage cheese is a valuable food from the nutrition standpoint, as it contains a large percentage of muscle building protein in an easily digested form, and from the housewife's point of view because it can be combined in so many ways to make economical, nutritious and appetizing dishes.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D. AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Answers to Mothers.
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.
"I have two children—a boy of seven who is as smart as he can be, and a girl of five and one-half years, who seems smart and is pretty, but she doesn't talk. She can say the words 'baby,' 'drink,' 'pretty,' or she'll say, 'shut the door,' but can't talk like other children. She can sing any tune she hears and can't say some words of the songs, but isn't it odd that she can sing the tune but can't say all the words plainly. Some people say she never will talk better. This worries me because I worship her. She's the baby and of course is spoiled more than she should be because she is the baby. She seems to be nervous. Would this have anything to do with her not talking? I took her to a doctor once and he said I would just have to teach her to talk, and I do try to."

MRS. M.
It is not unusual for children to be delayed in speech up to the second or even the third year, but if it goes into the fourth year, it should give some concern. One thinks, naturally: Is the child normal mentally? Is there some physical cause, such as deafness, which prevents the hearing of words, or obstruction which prevents the normal articulation? You should take the little girl to a children's specialist and let her have a thorough physical examination, Mrs. M.

One sentence in your letter, "I worship the child but she is spoiled more than she should be because she is the baby," may be illuminating. It is possible that there is a psychological cause for her mutism. You probably give in to her on the slightest provocation and she has found that she gets more attention by her handicap. Sometimes children are slow in talking when they find out that gestures, and grunts, bring them what they want. It is natural to worship our children, but we must be very careful how we show that worship. Over-petting and over-indulgence may harm them greatly. I wish all you mothers and prospective mothers would read "Psychology of Early Childhood," by Stern, Watson's "Psychological Care of Infant and Child" is good, but he goes to extremes, I think.

It seems to me, if you can't visit a specialist, it would be wise to have her visit some friends or relatives who do not give her things unless she asks for them properly and who will pay no attention to her not talking except to say she can have things if she asks for them properly. You might find she will burst out with a flood of language.

Her over-nervous condition also points to psychological factors. Apparently she is bright, but this thing should have attention for she will have mental retardation from it, even though she may not suffer much from it now. The fact that she can speak some words and can sing, shows she is not really mute.

Mrs. S.—Your baby is nearly a year old now and should be weaned completely. I suspect her trouble may be that she is not getting a sufficiently varied diet of solid foods as well as milk. She may be suffering from lack of vitamins C and D, as she is not getting enough pured fruits and vegetables and orange juice. Give her more pured spinach and some tomato juice for the vitamin B.

We have a list of books on the care and feeding of children you may have by following the column directions.

Tomorrow: Have You Had Your Copper Today?

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What are the three most annoying rocks on which the bark of matrimony is likely to be wrecked? Offhand I would say, incompatibility, fault-finding—which means nagging—and living beyond one's means. If tastes are not shared, if the two cannot work and play sympathetically together, one is left lonely and the two drift apart. Constant lack of appreciation and nagging will undermine the happiest home. And living beyond one's means entails a constant nervous strain and artificiality that breaks people down and makes them anything but normal and happy.

The queer part of marriage is that people who have once been wedded rarely remain single. If death or divorce separates them from their mates, those that death has parted are lonely, and those who are divorced are always hopeful that another union may prove happier than the first.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 39 years old and a widow for two years. I am considered good looking and a fine housekeeper. I am very lonely. Could you tell me how I could meet some real man—not a sheik—just a plain, honest, clean man, someone to love and be loved, to live for and work for?"

LOVELY HEART.
I'll have to tell you as I have so many others, that I don't know of any such person, and could not handle such a matter through this column if I did. Also, as I have advised before, could you not care for some child or children and need a motherly woman's love and help as much as you need companionship? You would thus ease your lonely heart, do a noble work, and incidentally, might gain the acquaintance of a person such as you seek through your desire to help others.

WORRIED AND BLUE: I think, with you, that it would be much better for your finance to come to your home and meet your people. But if he cannot, would it be possible for you to mother or some older friend to go with you and see you safely married? As far as the gossip goes, everyone has to put up with some of it and I wouldn't let it worry me, if I were you. Your finance can write to your people.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

EVERY KNOCK'S A BOOST!
Peter had heard all that he could stand without asking questions. "Please, Mr. Wild Gander," he said, "would you mind telling me how the Loons race and where? And who are the Loons anyway? Birds or beasts? I am afraid I sound very stupid, but, do you know, I have never seen one, although I do remember the name." "Never seen a loon! Then you have missed half your life," cried Tommy Gosling. "You don't know what jolly birds Loons are, for they are birds, of course. Just to look at them trying to waddle about on the land is enough to make you smile. And your sides just ache from laughing after you have watched them at their games. The Loons race in Loon's Pond, but I couldn't possibly tell you about it; you must see it for yourself. Come along with us, Two-Legs, can't you?"

Tommy Gosling had answered Peter's question before Father Gander had had a chance to say a word, but Gander didn't care. Instead he looked proudly at Tommy as though he thought him a very smart youngster indeed. Then he turned to the boy. "I second my son's invitation," said he. "Come along with us, Two-Legs, if you will, I promise you sights you have never seen and never would see if you did."

world's patronage, the whole world is in competition with us, too.

Now, we literally must have an outlet for our surplus—or trouble here at home.

What the American goes after he generally gets, and he is going after foreign markets with a sharp stick. Quite likely he will get them—but it may have to be more or less by force.

Trade rivalry, as we know, sometimes breeds war, and this is bound to be the bitter kind of rivalry, because, with us at least, it is a ground hog case.

Does this go any distance toward explaining why the United States finds it so difficult to arrive at a satisfactory disarmament agreement with the other nations of the earth?

The world's markets will not go around. They are vital to us. They are at least highly desirable to our competitors.

It is not a very auspicious moment to urge disarmament.

Household Hints
BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT. Green Peppers Stuffed with Ham. Creamed Potatoes. Buttered Beets. Asparagus Salad. French Dressing. Coffee Custard. Coffee. Other leftover meat may be used in place of the ham. The potatoes may be creamed on top of the stove and then put in the oven to brown. The menu will serve four or five, as you should allow one or two peppers extra for second helpings.

Today's Recipes. Green Peppers Stuffed with Ham.—Six green peppers, one-half cup boiled rice, one-half small onion, chopped, one-half cup cold minced ham, one-third cup milk, two tablespoons crumbs, one tablespoon butter, four tablespoons chopped mushrooms (these may be omitted). Cut tops from peppers, remove seeds and parboil peppers 10 minutes, then drain. Brown onion and mushrooms in one tablespoon of butter. Add ham, rice and sauce, cook three minutes, fill peppers. Cover with crumbs and dot over with remaining butter. Bake 10 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees. Serve on toast with brown sauce.

Coffee Custard.—Seal two cups milk with two tablespoons ground coffee, and strain. Beat four eggs lightly and add one-fourth cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and one milk. Strain into buttered individual molds, set in pan of hot water and bake until firm.

Suggestions. Waxing Floor. Before waxing the floor, dust it thoroughly and either wash it or, better still, rub it until bright with a cloth moistened with gasoline or turpentine.

The secret of success in waxing floors is thin coats and much rubbing, so, whether you use liquid or melted wax, give the floor a thin, even coating, the grain of the wood with a soft cloth and follow with a weighted brush. When the wax is thoroughly rubbed in, cover the brush with a piece of carpet or burlap and polish the floor until it reaches the desired luster. If you have no weighted brush use a heavy block or brick wrapped with a thick woolen cloth, old carpet or burlap.

Cottage Cheese Is Nutritious. Cottage cheese is a valuable food from the nutrition standpoint, as it contains a large percentage of muscle building protein in an easily digested form, and from the housewife's point of view because it can be combined in so many ways to make economical, nutritious and appetizing dishes.

Diet and Health
BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D., AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Answers to Mothers. God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.

"I have two children—a boy of seven who is as smart as he can be, and a girl of five and one-half years, who seems smart and is pretty, but she doesn't talk. She can say the words 'baby,' 'drink,' 'pretty,' or she'll say, 'shut the door,' but can't talk like other children. She can sing any tune she hears and can say some words of the songs, but isn't it odd that she can sing the tune but can't say all the words plainly. Some people say she never will talk better. This worries me because I worship her. She's the baby and of course is spoiled more than the other child. She seems to be nervous. Would this have anything to do with her not talking? I took her to a doctor once and he said I would just have to teach her to talk, and I do try to.

It is not unusual for children to be delayed in speech up to the second or even the third year, but it should give some concern. One thinks, naturally: Is the child normal mentally? Is there some physical cause, such as deafness, which prevents the hearing of words, or obstruction which prevents the normal articulation? You should take the little girl to a children's specialist and let her have a psychological test as well as a thorough physical examination, Mrs. M.

One sentence in your letter, "I worship the child but she is spoiled more than she should be because she is the baby," may be illuminating. It is possible that there is a psychological cause for her mutism. You probably give in to her on the slightest provocation and she has found that she gets more attention by her handicap. Sometimes children are slow in talking when they find out that gesturing, and grunts, bring them what they want. It is natural to worship our children, but we must be very careful how we show that worship. Over-protecting and over-indulgence may harm them greatly. I wish all you mothers set prospective mothers would read "Psychology of Early Childhood," by Stern, Watson's "Psychological Care of Infant and Child" is good, but he goes to extremes, I think.

It seems to me, if you can't visit a specialist, it would be wise to have her visit some friends or relatives who do not give her things all you mothers set prospective mothers would read "Psychology of Early Childhood," by Stern, Watson's "Psychological Care of Infant and Child" is good, but he goes to extremes, I think.

Her over-nervous condition also points to psychological factors. Apparently she is bright, but this thing should have attention for she will have mental retardation from it, even though she may not suffer much from it now. The fact that she can speak some words and can sing, shows she is not really mute.

Mrs. S.—Your baby is nearly a year old now and should be weaned completely. I suspect her trouble may be that she is not getting a sufficiently varied diet of solid foods as well as milk. She may be suffering from lack of vitamins C and D, as she is not getting enough pureed fruits and vegetables and orange juice. Give her more pureed spinach and some tomato juice for the vitamin B.

We have a list of books on the care and feeding of children you may have by following the column directions.

Tomorrow: Have You Had Your Copper Today?

Living and Loving
BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What are the three most annoying rocks on which the bark of matrimony is likely to be wrecked? Offending, fault-finding—which means nagging and twisting one's end, means. If tastes are not shared, if the two cannot work and play sympathetically together, one is left lonely and the two drift apart. Constant lack of appreciation and nagging will undermine the happiest home. And living beyond one's means entails a constant nervous strain and artificiality that breaks people down and makes them anything but normal and happy.

The queer part of marriage is that people who have once been wedded rarely remain single in death or divorce separates them from their mates. Those that death has parted are lonely, and those who are divorced are always hopeful that another union may prove happier than the first.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 39 years old and a widow for two years. I am considered good looking and a fine housekeeper. I am very lonely. Could you tell me how I could meet some real man—not a sheik—just a plain, honest, clean man, someone to love and be loved, to live for and work for?"

LONELY HEART. "I'll have to tell you as I have so many others, that I don't know of any such person, and could not handle such a matter through this column if I did. As I have advised before, could you not care for some child or children? I am a motherly woman, love and care as much as you need companionship? You would thus ease your lonely heart, do a noble work, and incidentally, might gain the acquaintance of a person such as you seek through your desire to help others."

WORRIED AND BLUE: I think, with you, that it would be much better for your finance to come to your home and meet your people. But if he can't, would it be possible for your mother or some older friend to go with you and see you safely married? As far as the gossip goes, everyone has to put up with some of it, and I wouldn't let it worry me, if I were you. Your finance can write to your people."

WATERING THE MILK

Said the waiter to the student who had just been given his fourth glass of milk: "You must be fond milk." Replied the student to above waiter: "Yes, or I wouldn't be drinking so much water to get a little."

Peter's Adventures
BY MRS. FLORENCE VINCENT

EVERY KNOCK'S A BOOST!

Peter had heard all that he could stand without asking questions. "Please, Mr. Wild Gander," he said, "would you mind telling me how the Loons race and where? And who are the Loons anyway? Birds or beasts? I am afraid I sound very stupid, but, do you know, I have never seen one, although I do remember the name."

"Never seen a loon! Then you have missed half your life," cried Tommy Gosling. "You don't know what jolly birds Loons are, for they are birds, of course. Just to look at them trying to waddle about on the long is enough to make you smile. And your sides just ache from laughing after you have watched them at their games. The Loons race in Loon's Pond, but I couldn't possibly tell you about it. You must see it for yourself. Come along with us, Two-Legs, can't you?"

Tommy Gosling had answered Peter's question before Father Gander had had a chance to say a word, but Gander didn't care. Instead he looked proudly at Tommy as though he thought him a very smart young fellow indeed. Then he turned to the boy.

"I second my son's invitation," said he. "Come along with us, Two-Legs, if you will, I promise you the Loons have never seen and never would see if you did."

not go to Loon Lake as the guest of some bird, and that bird a friend of the Loons. For of all the scary folks I have ever met, the Loons are the worst. They take every stranger for an enemy until he proves he is not.

"And it is hard for any stranger to prove he is a friend, for the Loons will not let him come close enough to them—off they fly at his approach. As for a Two-Legs, I have never heard of one who ever won his way into their good graces. But once they do know you and like you they are friends for life. As I said before, jolly friends they are, too. Yes, do come with us, Two-Legs, and see the fun." Mrs. Gosling nodded at the boy.

"I'd love to!" cried Peter. "Is it far?" And how shall I get back?"

"If we start now we shall reach Loon Lake by twilight, the playing-time of the Loons, and as for getting back again, you need not worry about that. Any passing traveler will bring you, and we will go with you to it that you get out of the woods all right. Now, let's not talk any more to the shore you step upon my back and we will be off."

Father Gander gave the cry that brought his children scuttling to his side.

One of the first moves of the Amateur Athletic Union, now that it has won out in its fight to retain control of amateur boxing in New York State, will be to bar professional managers from the corners of simon pure boxers.

It is perhaps needless to say that although there has been a gentleman's agreement to that effect, it has not been observed.

Dan J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., was always under the impression that a rule was passed in the days of the old Madison Square Garden forbidding professionals from acting as seconds. In those days it was a common occurrence for the pros and pugilists to crowd around the corner of a promising looking young amateur and in the most approved Kibitzer manner, swing his towels, shower him with advice and in general make nuisances of themselves, at the same time depriving the bout of its amateur status.

In any event, even if the rule isn't in the A. A. U. handbook, this deficiency will be remedied shortly thereby preventing a possible repetition of the disgraceful scenes which attended one of the bouts in the recent inter-city Golden Glove matches in Madison Square Garden.

In the affair in question, Leo P. Flynn, a licensed fight manager, was permitted to act as chief second for Jimmy Morris of New York in the latter's bout with a Chicago negro named Willis. This, despite the fact the bout was supposed to have been conducted on a strictly amateur basis. Moreover, other professionals raised such a commotion in Morris' corner during the bout that if the affair had been a professional fight the athletic commission would have had them thrown out of the arena.

But this was a strictly amateur bout and the lack of decorum displayed by the professional backers of Jimmy Morris went unquestioned. It was all right, apparently, for the pros to crowd in and take charge of the situation in violation of all rules.

Not only that but Flynn and his gang, to make matters worse, managed to root Morris into a decision which Jimmy didn't earn. Knocked down three times, Morris was clearly outpointed by his opponent, Flynn and others have also won other fights from the corner.

It remains a mystery why the promoters of the affair ever permitted such goings on. It is things like that that rob bouts of the saving grace of amateurism.

Unlike Tex Rickard, who, when alive, never hesitated to express himself on the subject of mixed bouts for the title, Jack Dempsey side-steps the question of giving an unequivocal answer to the question of promoting a mixed bout for the heavyweight championship of the world. Jack knows that George Godfrey, of Leopardstown, Pa., is without a doubt the greatest heavyweight fighter in the ring today and Jack's partner, Humbert J. Fugazy, has the first fall on the big negro's services. Dempsey is stalling, on this issue, as he is on many others.

BILL TO AUTHORIZE SHOOTING AT BOOZE AUTOS IS ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, May 2. — "A warning to bootleggers that they are gambling with death" was the interpretation Rep. Miller, Repn., N. Y., today gave to his bill which would allow police officers to use weapons to prevent rum runners using smoke screens from escaping.

"A policeman should be allowed to use every force at his command to make an arrest when a felony is committed," Miller said. "Otherwise the criminal element will run wild."

Rep. O'Connor, Dem., N. Y., said the bill clearly demonstrated there were some witch-burners left in the house of representatives and characterized Miller as a fanatic dry.

"Such a bill would legalize murder—it's absurd," O'Connor said. "Some people are reverting to witch burning, thumb-screwing, torture and fanaticism for prohibition is carrying one element completely away."

Rep. Brand, Dem., Ga., a dry and recognized as a legal expert after serving twelve years as a judge, said such a measure had little chance of ever being adopted by congress.

HAMILTON AUTO RACES OPEN MAY 12

Knights of the roaring road will gather Sunday afternoon, May 12, at the Hamilton speedway, when the opening speedway automobile races of the season will be held. Twenty events, ten, fifteen and twenty-five mile races will be reeled off on the half mile track, recognized as one of the fastest dirt tracks in the middle west.

Entry blanks have gone out to 150 drivers, and promoters Early and Miller, of the United States Automobile Racing Association, have already received assurances that upwards of two score of the leading dirt track racers of the country will be there with their cars tuned to perfect pitch for the three big events.

JAMESTOWN PLAYS DAYTON ON SUNDAY

Providing the Weather Man is agreeable, the Jamestown Independents and the Shamrock Eagles of Dayton will make another attempt to pry off the lid of their 1929 baseball seasons in the opening game scheduled for Sunday afternoon at Jamestown.

Jamestown had fond hopes of ushering in the diamond season last Sunday with the Dayton Shamrockes furnishing the opposition, but a heavy rain made the field too wet for playing.

BRAVES' FLAG TRIO ON TEAM AGAIN

GOWDY MARANVILLE EVERS

The purchase of Rabbit Maranville from the Cardinals by the Boston Braves, and the acquisition of Hank Gowdy, as a coach, brings back once again the famous trio which figured greatly in the Boston Nationals' only pennant. Johnny Evers, signed recently as coach and assistant manager, is the third of the old Braves of great days who will labor for the Boston outfit this year. Evers and Maranville are infielders and Gowdy a noted catcher.

FLYERS AHEAD WHEN SHOWER STOPS GAME

With the University of Dayton nine leading by seven runs, the Weather Man kindly stepped in and provided a sudden downpour of rain and hail that saved the Cedarville College baseball team from a probable defeat at the hands of the Flyers on the Cedarville diamond Wednesday afternoon.

The hailstorm stopped the game at the end of the fourth inning and in this length of time Dayton had obtained a seven-run advantage with Ralph "Pope" Moyer, Flyer pitcher hurling fine ball.

This was the second time that Moyer, sophomore hurler, was robbed of a victory through no fault of his own. In a previous game he started against Wittenberg but because of poor support by his teammates in the field, was forced to accept a 5 to 2 defeat. The Banjanites gathered five runs in the third stanza and were seven tallies to the good when hostilities ended.

It remains a mystery why the promoters of the affair ever permitted such goings on. It is things like that that rob bouts of the saving grace of amateurism.

Unlike Tex Rickard, who, when alive, never hesitated to express himself on the subject of mixed bouts for the title, Jack Dempsey side-steps the question of giving an unequivocal answer to the question of promoting a mixed bout for the heavyweight championship of the world. Jack knows that George Godfrey, of Leopoldtown, Pa., is without a doubt the greatest heavyweight fighter in the ring today and Jack's partner, Humbert J. Fugazy, has the first fall on the big negro's services. Dempsey is stalling, on this issue, as he is on many others.

BILL TO AUTHORIZE SHOOTING AT BOOZE AUTOS IS ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, May 2. — "A warning to bootleggers that they are gambling with death" was the interpretation Rep. Miller, Repn., N. Y., today gave to his bill which would allow police officers to use weapons to prevent rum runners using smoke screens from escaping.

"A policeman should be allowed to use every force at his command to make an arrest when a felony is committed," Miller said. "Otherwise the criminal element will run wild."

Rep. O'Connor, Dem., N. Y., said the bill clearly demonstrated there were some witch-burners left in the house of representatives and characterized Miller as a fanatic.

"Such a bill would legalize murder—it's absurd," O'Connor said. "Some people are reverting to the witch burning, thumb-screwing, torture age. Fanaticism for prohibition is carrying one element completely away."

Rep. Brand, Dem., Ga., a dry and recognized as a legal expert after serving twelve years as a judge, said such a measure had little chance of ever being adopted by congress.

HAMILTON AUTO RACES OPEN MAY 12

Knights of the roaring road will gather Sunday afternoon May 12, at the Hamilton speedway, when the opening speedway automobile races of the season will be held. Three events, ten, fifteen and twenty-five mile races will be run on the half mile track, recognized as one of the fastest dirt tracks in the middle west.

Entry blanks have gone out to 150 drivers, and promoters Early and Miller, of the United States Automobile Racing Association, have already received assurances that upwards of two score of the leading dirt track racers of the country will be there with their cars tuned to perfect pitch for the three big events.

JAMESTOWN PLAYS DAYTON ON SUNDAY

Providing the Weather Man is agreeable, the Jamestown Independents and the Shamrock Eagles of Dayton will make another attempt to pry off the lid of their 1929 baseball seasons in the opening game scheduled for Sunday afternoon at Jamestown.

Jamestown had fond hopes of gathering in the diamond season last Sunday with the Dayton Shamrockers furnishing the opposition, but a heavy rain made the field too wet for playing.

BRAVES' FLAG TRIO ON TEAM AGAIN

1929

The purchase of Rabbit Maranville from the Cardinals by the Boston Braves, and the acquisition of Hank Gowdy, as a coach, brings back once again the famous trio which figured greatly in the Boston Nationals' only pennant. Johnny Evers, signed recently as coach and assistant manager, is the third of the old Braves of great days who will labor for the Boston outfit this year. Evers and Maranville are infielders and Gowdy a noted catcher.

FLYERS AHEAD WHEN SHOWER STOPS GAME

With the University of Dayton nine leading by seven runs, the Weather Man kindly stepped in and provided a sudden downpour of rain and hail that saved the Cedarville College baseball team from a probable defeat at the hands of the Flyers on the Cedarville diamond Wednesday afternoon.

The hailstorm stopped the game at the end of the fourth inning and in this length of time Dayton had obtained a seven-run advantage with Ralph "Pope" Moyer, Flyer pitcher hurling fine ball.

This was the second time that Moyer, sophomore hurler, was robbed of a victory through no fault of his own. In a previous game he started against Wittenberg but because of poor support by his teammates in the field, was forced to accept a 5 to 2 defeat. The Bauganites gathered five runs in the third stanza and were seven tallies to the good when hostilities ended.

EAST AND LINCOLN SCHOOLS PLAN KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS DAY

The East High and Lincoln Schools will observe their annual "Know Your School" day, Friday, May 3.

School will be dismissed at noon on that day and resumed at night to complete the day's program. Regular classes will be held from 7:15 to 9:30.

Besides regular recitations there will be exhibits of pupils' work in the departments of manual training, home economics and in the special grades.

TARDY TAXPAYER NOW DELINQUENT

All taxpayers of Greene County who have failed to make their required personal property tax returns were classed as delinquents Thursday.

Wednesday was the deadline date for filing returns and tardy taxpayers will lose a $100 property exemption and may incur an additional 50 per cent penalty.

While no figures on the total returns are expected to be available for several days, it is believed at the county auditor's office that the delinquent list will not be any larger than in previous years, if as great.

The eleventh hour rush to file returns developed as predicted.

MT. TABOR

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the genuine bottles.

Do give it a trial, to prove how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours.—Adv.

Miss Mary Helen Johnson is confined to her home with the measles.

EAST AND LINCOLN
SCHOOLS PLAN KNOW
YOUR SCHOOLS DAY

The East High and Lincoln Schools will observe their annual "Know Your School" day, Friday, May 3.
School will be dismissed at noon on that day and resumed at night to complete the day's program. Regular classes will be held from 7:15 to 9:30.
Besides regular recitations there will be exhibits of pupils' work in the departments of manual training, home economics and in the special grades.

TARDY TAXPAYER
NOW DELINQUENT

All tax-payers of Greene County who have failed to make their required personal property tax returns were classed as delinquents Thursday.
Wednesday was the deadline date for filing returns and tardy tax-payers will lose a $100 property exemption and may incur an additional 50 per cent penalty.
While no figures on the total returns are expected to be available for several days, it is believed at the county auditor's office that the delinquent list will not be any larger than in previous years, if as great.
The eleventh hour rush to file returns developed as predicted.

MT. TABOR

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolary and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Tidd and family, of near Jamestown.
Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Smith and family of Elzezer spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. B. LeValley, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith.
Mr. and Mrs. John Devoe, of Xenia, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Jones and family.
Sunday School, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock prompt. F. M. Buckwalter, superintendent.
The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Aid, will be held at the home of Mrs. Lura Jones, Thursday afternoon, the 9th.

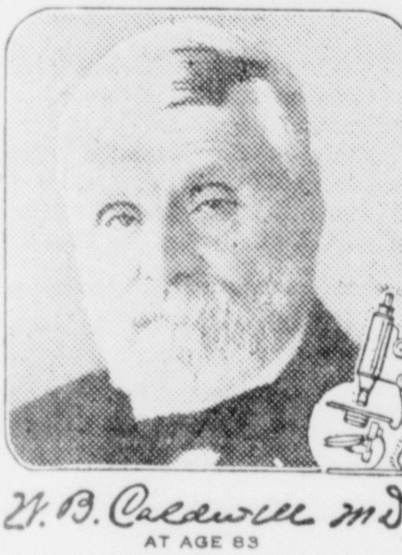

Camera Finally Catches Elusive Child

This exclusive picture shows the infant son of Millicent Rogers Ramos, Standard Oil heiress, and her second husband, Arturo Ramos. More than a month of patient waiting was necessary before this picture of the infant was finally snapped in his perambulator as he was sunning himself.

Old Folks Say Doctor
Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin. The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several strong drugs?
A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.
Do give it a trial, to prove how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours.—Adv.

WINS JUDGMENTS IN FOUR NOTE ACTIONS; OTHER COURT NEWS

John T. Harbine, Jr., has been awarded four cognovit note judgments aggregating $1,991.31 in Common Pleas Court.

The judgments were as follows: against Thomas Deeter McBride and Phoebe Elizabeth McBride, $439.10; Edwin A. Jeffries, Della Jeffries and Fred C. Fisher, $143.71; James L. Hurley and Elizabeth Hurley, $249.50; Harry Cots Poore, Ethel Poore, John Monroe Thorne and Myrtle L. Thorne, $115.99.

The Chew Publishing Co. recovered a cognovit note judgment for $118.55 against John Thomas Sutton.

NAMED EXECUTOR

C. C. Constable has been appointed executor of the estate of Joseph P. Hebble, late of Fairfield, without bond in Probate Court. R. O. Rountz, Edward Richmond and Jacob Koogler were named appraisers.

VALUE ESTATE

Estate of A. L. Bigler, deceased, has a gross value of $1,072, according to an estimate filed in Probate Court. Debts and the cost of administration total $2,403, leaving a net value of $1,669.

HEARING SET

Application seeking to probate the last will of Georgiana E. Greene, late of Bellbrook, has been fixed for a hearing at 10 a. m. May 7 in Probate Court.

GUARDIAN APPOINTED

Donna B. Finney has been appointed guardian of James Howard Finney, 11, child, of E. E. Finney, deceased, and has filed bond of $2,000 in Probate Court.

ENFORCE SENTENCE

Ordering that the sentence pronounced against Price Cummings, Bellbrook Pike, July 17, 1928, be enforced and made effective immediately, Probate Judge S. C. Wright has directed that Cummings be committed to the Cincinnati Workhouse in default of payment of a fine of $300 and costs, imposed on a conviction for possessing liquor. The conviction was sustained by Common Pleas Court several days ago.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

"The Age of Speed" a three reel picture furnished by the University Cinema Service, Chicago, will be shown in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium Thursday, May 2. An admission of ten cents will be charged and the profit will be used to purchase a set of books for the library.

The final class edition of the Central High Review, school weekly, will be published Thursday, May 9 by the graduating class. The staff in charge of the senior issue follows:

On Friday May 3, weather permitting, Central High will observe May Day in Shawnee Park. Besides the regular Maypole dancing a series of field events and contests has been arranged which will be of an intra-mural nature. If the weather is unfavorable the program will be postponed until a later date.

Students will have the privilege of hearing the Osborn High School Orchestra in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium Tuesday, May 7, during the activity period. Annually this organization presents a program for Central High and the event is one which is anticipated largely.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Next a Rexall Orderlies at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre's Drug Store. —Adv.

the senior class play, "The Family Upstairs" was announced Tuesday and is as follows:

Business managers, Chas. Wood, Chas. McPherson; property managers, Arvilla Imier, James Beals; Marjorie Hook, Ben Lacklitter; stage managers, Irvin South, Edwin Bull, James Snyder; electricians, Lawrence Eyer, asst. Robt. Maxwell; head usher, Forest Grandin.

With the advent of the last five weeks of school, the senior class has again taken over the noon-day candy sales and will conduct them until the close of school. These sales have proved an excellent way of increasing class treasures and the three upper classes have been greatly benefited by them.

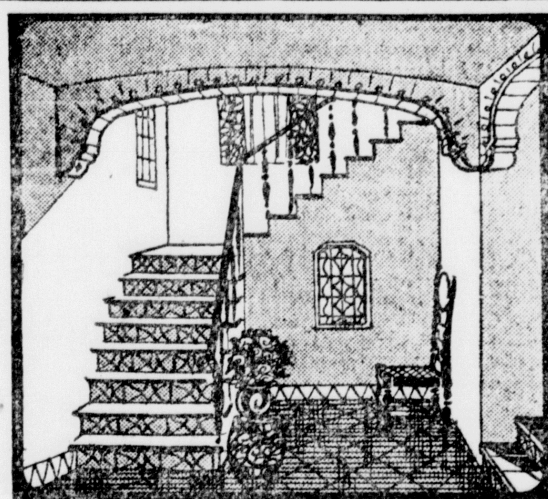

A "Polar Cake sale" was sponsored by the senior class Tuesday afternoon and a neat profit realized. The committee in charge, included Mildred Moon, chairman; Inez Smith, Helen Brenner, Ruby Bice, Paul Bales, Charles Zell. The proceeds from the sale will go to swell the senior memorial fund.

The ticket sale for "The Maid and the Golden Slipper", Junior High operetta, is progressing rapidly according to William Hugh Miller, who is directing the play. The plot is taken from the well known fairy tale, "Cinderella", and should prove extremely interesting, Mary Nel Dunkle and Tom Huston carrying the leading roles.

Tickets for the senior class play, "The Family Upstairs" are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the graduating class. Reserved seats may be obtained any time after 12 noon, May 8, at Sohn's Drug Store.

STANDARDS OF EFFICIENCY

AN outstanding achievement... the first all-steel refrigerators. New low prices. The greatest values ever offered by General Electric.

This all-steel refrigerator development is another contribution to better living—made by the engineers and scientists of the General Electric Research Laboratories.

Now you can buy a refrigerator with a cabinet built like a safe. One with doors that will always fit perfectly. One which will operate on the least amount of current. One which shuts out the heat—keeps in the cold.

The hermetically sealed mechanism remains just as it always has been—sealed away from dust and difficulties, permanently oiled, quiet, unseen, untouched—one of the miracles of modern science. The General Electric, too, was the first to provide an easily accessible temperature control which speeds up the freezing of ice cubes when the user desires.

Because of mass production economies, prices now start at only $215. at the factory. There are six sizes. See them at our display rooms—examine them thoroughly—let us explain our plan of conveniently spaced time payments.

Listen in on the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday evening, 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time, over the N.B.C. network of 42 stations.

Besides the regular May-pole dancing a series of field events and contests has been arranged which will be of an intra-mural nature. If the weather is unfavorable the program will be postponed until a later date.

Students will have the privilege of hearing the Osborn High School Orchestra in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium Tuesday, May 7, during the activity period. Annually this organization presents a program for Central High and the event is one which is anticipated largely.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre's Drug Store. —Adv.

the senior class play, "The Family Upstairs" was announced Tuesday and is as follows:

Business managers, Chas. Wood, Chas. McPherson; property managers, Arvilla Imier, James Boals, Marjorie Hook, Ben Lickliter; stage managers, Irvin South, Edwin Bull, James Snyder; electricians, Lawrence Eyer, asst., Robt. Maxwell; head usher, Forest Grandin.

With the advent of the last five weeks of school, the senior class has again taken over the noon-day candy sales and will conduct them until the close of school. These sales have proved an excellent way of increasing class treasures and the three upper classes have been greatly benefited by them.

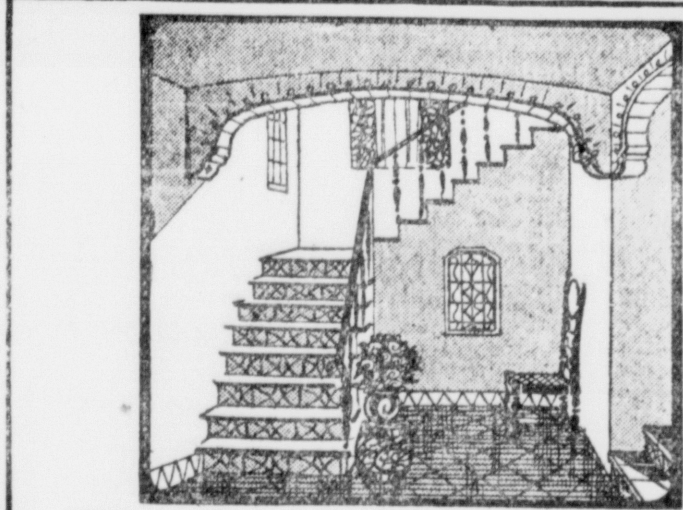

A "Polar Cake sale" was sponsored by the senior class Tuesday afternoon and a neat profit realized. The committee in charge, included Mildred Moon, chairman, Inez Smith, Helen Brenner, Ruby Bice, Paul Bales, Charles Zell. The proceeds from the sale will go to swell the senior memorial fund.

The ticket sale for "The Maid and the Golden Slipper", Junior High operetta, is progressing rapidly according to William Hugh Miller, who is directing the play. The plot is taken from the well known fairy tale, "Cinderella", and should prove extremely interesting, Mary Nel Dunkle and Tom Huston carrying the leading roles.

Tickets for the senior class play, "The Family Upstairs" are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the graduating class. Reserved seats may be obtained any time after 12 noon, May 8, at Sohn's Drug Store.

HEAVY HAIL STORM
HITS XENIA WITH
WEDNESDAY STORM

Hail which did not reach destructive proportions preceded a heavy storm which broke over Xenia early Wednesday evening, the rains quickly filling up sewers and causing small streams to flow along the curbing.

The only damage reported as a result of the frozen rain consisted of boulevard lights in front of the Second U. P. Church, Market and West Sts., being broken by the hail.

Florists reported that the frozen particles were of insufficient size to break the glass at their green houses.

No reports of serious crop damage were received by County Agent E. A. Drake who said that in his opinion the storm did not cause much damage.

The hailstorm was not general over Greene County but seemed to center over Xenia.

A variety of unseasonable weather is promised by weather forecasters for the next twenty-four hours, including rain possibly mixed with snow, high winds and much colder temperatures.

The gale-like winds are expected to arrive Thursday afternoon and it is predicted they will diminish in intensity sometime during the night. Friday morning the weather will clear, it is said, and warmer temperatures will gradually return.

DOCTORS TO PROBE
WHOOPING COUGH;
DISEASE SPREADS

Spread of whooping cough throughout Greene County was given cognizance by physicians Thursday morning attending the monthly meeting of the Greene County Medical Society in the assembly room of the Court House.

Doctors did not attempt to give any cause for the prevalence of the disease, which has reached alarming proportions, it is said. Dr. R. H. Grube, county health commissioner, was unable to estimate the number of cases in the county Thursday although admitting that the cough appeared to be gaining.

He does not believe weather conditions are responsible, he said.

Appointment of a committee of the medical society to investigate means of checking the spread of the disease, resulted from a discussion of the malady at the medical society meeting. The committee appointed is composed of Dr. H. C. Messenger, Xenia; Dr. Schick, Cedarville and Dr. L. L. Taylor, Yellow Springs.

Appointment Urged

President Hoover is being urged by Kentucky Republicans to appoint Dr. T. T. Wendell, negro physician of Lexington, as minister to Liberia.

KONJOLA ENDS
TEN YEARS OF
LADY'S ILLNESS

New Medicine Proves First And Only Relief In Breakdown After An Operation

"I was never so surprised and delighted in my life, than when Konjola restored me to health."

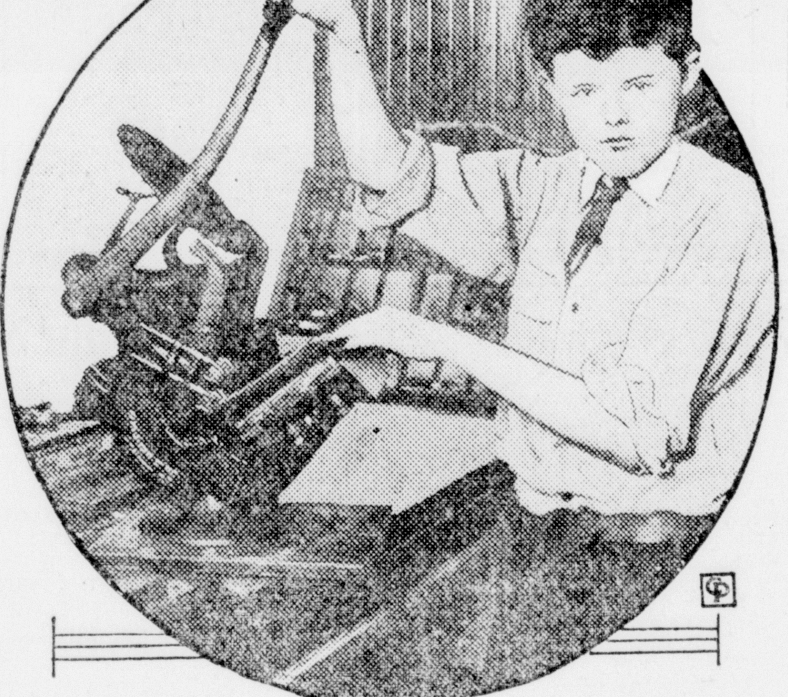

MRS. DAISY MARSHALL said Mrs. Daisy Marshall, 2625 Eastern Avenue, Cincinnati.

"My health kept failing ever since I underwent an operation for appendicitis. I grew weaker and weaker despite my attempts to find relief in medicines and treatments. I became nervous, and mornings found me tired. Indigestion and back ache added to my miseries."

"I had heard many good reports about Konjola, and decided to try it. In four weeks I was completely well. My friends marvelled at the change in my condition. Digestion was restored and my nerves soothed. I am gaining rapidly in health and strength, and Konjola has accomplished wonders in building me up. I owe it all to this marvelous Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Xenia at Gallagher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

TOWN'S ONE NEWSPAPER EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY SMALL BOY

Roderick and his typewriter, above; below, running the press.

By Central Press
PLAINVILLE, Mass., May 2. — Rod Chisholm is a small boy with a big dream.

In the dream Rod sits in a fine office littered with all sorts of papers scattered about while outside there is a perfect hub-bub of noise—the clatter of typewriters, the clatter of telegraph keys and the soft metal rain of countless typesetting machines.

Also—in the dream—men rush in and out of his office calling him "Chief!" and asking about the latest murder, who is going to be president, and how about some baseball passes, while the floor quivers with the thunder of giant presses dashing off the Five Star Final and Late Wall Street edition.

You've guessed it. Rod Chisholm wants to be a big city editor. But, unlike most small boys of 12, Rod isn't content to sit and dream. He's already taken off down that romantic road which only newspapermen know.

Real Editor

Rod is an editor. "Course not the big editor he dreams of being, but editor of the only newspaper in his town, the twice-monthly Plainville Times. And it's a success."

Rod launched the Times a year ago when he decided Plainville should have a paper of its own. The Times was just a little fellow—it still is—but has now grown mightily in circulation. Two columns wide and six inches deep is the size of each page. He—but let Editor Roderick M. Chisholm tell you about it himself.

"Our press," said Editor Chisholm, not a bit abashed by a big city reporter who came to interview him (wasn't he an editor and the other fellow only a reporter? Huh!) "Our press was a gift from my mother. She gave it to me two years ago last summer."

"We publish every other Saturday. Our circulation averages about 108 subscribers. When I started the Times it had only two subscribers. One was my teacher. But people got to noticing it and started buying it."

Rod Can Do Anything.

Though Rod doesn't say it, he is virtually the whole works in getting out the Times. He is publisher, editor, reporter, advertising solicitor, makeup man, pressman and office boy. People usually pay promptly in Plainville so he is usually saved the duties of bill collector.

Rod has two employees—a boy of his own age who acts as correspondent in nearby North Attleboro and a "kid" who helps him deliver papers.

In the basement of his home Rod maintains a large office, a room about 12 feet square. There you find the true newspaper atmosphere. There are several desks and tables, heaped high with newspapers of surrounding cities, a typewriter, pictures from magazines and sports pages decorating the whitewashed walls and cubbyholes for flitting away material. Across the room is a hand-press in excellent working order, several racks of type, offering a variety of type faces, and other appurtenances of the printer's trade.

larger contemporaries in April, 1928, when he issued a special edition in honor of the 23rd anniversary of Plainville. Somehow, the papers of nearby cities had overlooked the important event. The Time appeared, dressed in appropriate style and boasting 20 pages of news matter and advertising.

An historical article, which appeared in that issue, conveys some idea of the brevity which characterizes the youthful editor's presentation of news. It follows:

"Our first white settler was J. Slack. He named this Slackville. He made history in Mass. We were Inc. in 1906."

Among other things, the Times has a snappy motto, which sets forth the publisher's policy. It reads: "Bright, Breezy Bellicose and Bustling."

Typical Editorial

Living up to this slogan, Editor Roderick published this editorial March 2:

"But the schedule. That's what the Interstate Railway fellows are hollering ever since they have been running one-man cars Sunday's and nights. They've been late early. More about it soon."

Politics, too, claim his attention, if this item is any criterion: "Mr. Hoyt (Rep) is opposed by Fred Northup. Both act good-natured as we go to press."

Roderick is not always solemn. Occasionally he publishes a column of humor called "Snapshots." Here are a couple of them:

"Of course cigarettes ruin a woman's complexion. Smoke was always ruinous to paint."

"The great horror is not in discovering what man descends from, but in what he descends to."

And—oh, yes—the Times shows a bi-weekly net profit of from $3 to $4.

Perusal of any issue of the Plainville Times shows that merchants of the town and of nearby North Attleboro are giving the little paper serious consideration as an advertising medium. Each week the boy publisher prints a number of ads, for which he receives real money.

The Times sells for two cents an issue, Rod having recently lowered the price from three cents.

Has "News Nose"

Examination of back numbers of the Times indicates that its editor is possessed of a "nose for news," a very necessary adjunct in the realm of journalism, as well as a nose for business.

These two qualities enabled him to score a distinct beat on his land, traditional birthplace of American culture and learning? Should there be goodly expenditures for books, teachers, sewing and cooking classes and other accoutrements of the modern educational system, or should the line be drawn at the old-fashioned three "R's"?

Must the schools bear their proportionate share of the reduction in municipal funds caused by depression in New England textile centers, or has education, in the name of progress and enlightenment, prior claim on the money available?

That, in brief, is the problem confronting Lowell, one of the pioneer mill cities of New England.

As Correspondent Sees It

Today, half the factories are idle. Mismanagement, Southern competition and municipal dereliction have all had their part in bringing about pronounced depression, business men say. The city is struggling successfully to change its industrial complexion. Scores of smaller industries have grown up to replace the huge cotton and woolen manufacturing concerns which were for years the economic backbone of the community.

Only the other day the first passenger airplane manufactured in Massachusetts was turned out of the new plane factory here and formally christened by national and state officials. Lowell is "coming back."

A period of retrenchment has set in. The city desires to relieve industry of heavy taxes of the past. Since January 1, 1927, the tax rate has been reduced $5. Mayor Thomas H. Braden, who took office three months ago, has swung the pruning knife "high, wide and handsome" in an effort to keep the tax rate where it is or to bring about a further reduction. Employees in every department have been dropped, loans have been kept at a minimum and the mayor himself has agreed to accept a 20 per cent salary reduction.

Where Rub Comes

Naturally, the economy drive has extended to the schools, over which Superintendent Hugh J. Molloy presides. There, its progress has met a set-back. The entire state is watching the outcome of the battle which has extended even to the highest court of the commonwealth.

The school committee, of which Mayor Braden is an ex officio member, submitted a budget of $1,419,000 at the beginning of the year. The mayor promptly slashed $100,000 from this figure, and the city council, which has the final say on general expenditures, as promptly approved the slash. Superintendent Molloy and members of the school committee immediately protested that the schools would have to close before the end of the year.

"Let them close," said Mayor Braden. "The law doesn't demand that they be open all year."

"The city is spending only 20 per cent of its total annual outlay on its schools," retorted Superintendent Molloy. "There should be no curtailment at the expense of enlightenment."

"There are too many frills and fads and too many unnecessary teachers in the schools," Mayor Braden persisted. "By careful management the department can run for the entire year on the budget I have followed."

There the matter rests. The "show-down" will come in the autumn when the funds will have gotten low.

Meanwhile, an effort is being made to have it definitely estab-

HEAVY HAIL STORM HITS XENIA WITH WEDNESDAY STORM

Hail which did not reach destructive proportions preceded a heavy storm which broke over Xenia early Wednesday evening. The rains quickly filling up sewers and causing small streams to flow along the curbing.

The only damage reported as a result of the frozen rain consisted of boulevard lights in front of the Second U. P. Church, Market and West Sts., being broken by the hail.

Florists reported that the frozen particles were of insufficient size to break the glass at their green houses.

No reports of serious crop damage were received by County Agent E. A. Drake who said that in his opinion the storm did not cause much damage.

The hailstorm was not general over Greene County but seemed to center over Xenia.

A variety of unseasonable weather is promised by weather forecasters for the next twenty-four hours, including rain possibly mixed with snow, high winds and much colder temperatures.

The gale-like winds are expected to arrive Thursday afternoon and it is predicted they will diminish in intensity sometime during the night. Friday morning the weather will clear, it is said, and warmer temperatures will gradually return.

DOCTORS TO PROBE WHOOPIING COUGH; DISEASE SPREADS

Spread of whooping cough throughout Greene County was given cognizance by physicians Thursday morning attending the monthly meeting of the Greene County Medical Society in the assembly room of the Court House.

Doctors did not attempt to give any cause for the prevalence of the disease, which has reached alarming proportions. It is said Dr. H. H. Grube, county health commissioner, was unable to estimate the number of cases in the county Thursday although admitting that the cough appeared to be gaining. He does not believe weather conditions are responsible, he said.

Appointment of a committee of the medical society to investigate means of checking the spread of the disease, resulted from a discussion of the malady at a medical society meeting. The committee appointed is composed of Dr. H. C. Messenger, Xenia; Dr. L. Schick, Cedarville; and Dr. L. L. Taylor, Yellow Springs.

Appointment Urged

President Hoover is being urged by Kentucky Republicans to appoint Dr. T. T. Wendell, negro physician of Lexington, as minister to Liberia.

KONJOLA ENDS TEN YEARS OF LADY'S ILLNESS

New Medicine Proves First And Only Relief In Breakdown After An Operation

"I was never so surprised and delighted in my life, than when Konjola restored me to health."

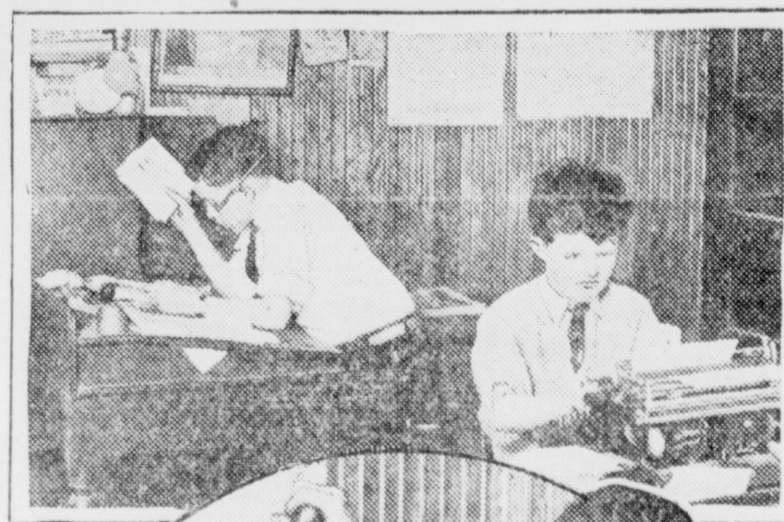

MRS. DAISY MARSHALL said Mrs. Daisy Marshall, 2625 Eastern Avenue, Cincinnati.

"My health kept failing ever since I underwent an operation for appendicitis. I grew weaker and weaker despite my attempts to find relief in medicines and treatments. I became nervous, and mornings found me tired. Indigestion and back ache added to my miseries."

"I had heard many good reports about Konjola, and decided to try it. In four weeks I was completely well. My friends marvelled at the change in my condition. Digestion was restored and my nerves soothed. I am gaining rapidly in health and strength, and Konjola has accomplished wonders in building me up. I owe it all to this matchless Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Xenia at Gallagher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

TOWN'S ONE NEWSPAPER EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY SMALL BOY

Roderick and his typewriter, above; below, running the press.

By Central Press
PLAINVILLE, Mass., May 2. — Rod Chisholm is a small boy with a big dream.

In the dream Rod sits in a fine office littered with all sorts of papers scattered about while outside there is a perfect hub-bub of noise—the clatter of typewriter keys and the clatter of telegraph keys and the soft metal rain of countless typesetting machines.

Also—in the dream—men rush in and out of his office calling him "Chief!" and asking about the latest murder, who is going to be president, and how about some baseball passes, while the floor quivers with the thunder of giant presses dashing off the Five Star Final and Late Wall Street edition.

You've guessed it. Rod Chisholm wants to be a big city editor. But, unlike most small boys of 12, Rod isn't content to sit and dream. He's already taken off down that romantic road which only newspapermen know.

Real Editor

Rod is an editor. "Course not the big editor he dreams of being, but editor of the only newspaper in his town, the twice-a-month Plainville Times. And it's a success."

Rod launched the Times a year ago when he decided Plainville should have a paper of its own. The Times was just a little fellow—it still is—but has now grown mightily in circulation. Two columns wide and six inches deep is the size of each page. He—but let Editor Roderick M. Chisholm tell you about it himself.

"Our press," said Editor Chisholm, not a bit abashed by a big city reporter who came to interview him (wasn't he an editor and the other fellow only a reporter? Huh!) "Our press was a gift from my mother. She gave it to me two years ago last summer."

"We publish every other Saturday. Our circulation averages about 100 subscribers. When I started the Times it had only two subscribers. One was my teacher. But people got to noticing it and started buying it."

Rod Can Do Anything. Though Rod doesn't say it, he is virtually the whole works in getting out the Times. He is publisher, editor, reporter, advertising solicitor, makeup man, pressman and office boy. People usually pay promptly in Plainville so he is usually saved the duties of bill collector.

Rod has two employees—a boy of his own age who acts as correspondent in nearby North Attleboro and a "kid" who helps him deliver papers.

In the basement of his home Rod maintains a large office, a room about 12 feet square. There you find the true newspaper atmosphere. There are several desks and tables, heaped high with newspapers of surrounding cities, a typewriter, pictures from magazines and sports pages decorating the whitewashed walls and cubbyholes for filing away material. Across the room is a hand-press in excellent working order, several racks of type, offering a variety of type faces, and other appurtenances of the printer's trade.

Perusal of any issue of the Plainville Times shows that merchants of the town and of nearby North Attleboro are giving the little paper serious consideration as an advertising medium. Each week the boy publisher prints a number of ads, for which he receives real money.

The Times sells for two cents an issue, Rod having recently lowered the price from three cents.

Has "News Nose" Examination of back numbers of the Times indicates that its editor is possessed of a "nose for news," a very necessary adjunct in the realm of journalism, as well as a nose for business.

These two qualities enabled him to score a distinct beat on his

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

larger contemporaries in April, 1928, when he issued a special edition in honor of the 23rd anniversary of Plainville. Somehow, the papers of nearby cities had overlooked the important event. The Time appeared, dressed in appropriate style and boasting 20 pages of news matter and advertising.

An historical article, which appeared in that issue, conveys some idea of the brevity which characterizes the youthful editor's presentation of news. It follows:

"Our first white settler was J. Slack. He named this Slackville. He made history in Mass. We were Inc. in 1906."

Among other things, the Times has a snappy motto, which sets forth the publisher's policy. It reads: "Bright, Breezy Bellicose and Bustling."

Typical Editorial

Living up to this slogan, Editor Roderick published this editorial March 2:

"Bust the schedule. That's what the Interstate Railway fellows are hollering ever since they have been running one-man cars Sunday's and nights. They've been late or early. More about it soon."

Politics, too, claim his attention. If this item is any criterion: "Mr. Hoyt (Rep) is opposed by Fred Northrup. Both act good-natured as we go to press."

Roderick is not always solemn. Occasionally he publishes a column of humor called "Snapshots." Here are a couple of them:

"Of course cigarettes ruin a woman's complexion. Smoke was always ruinous to paint."

"The great horror is not in discovering what man descends from, but in what he descends to."

And—oh, yes—the Times shows a bi-weekly net profit of from $3 to $4.

land, traditional birthplace of American culture and learning? Should there be goodly expenditures for books, teachers, sewing and cooking classes and other accoutrements of the modern educational system, or should the line be drawn at the old-fashioned three "R's"?

Most of the schools bear their proportionate share of the reduction in municipal funds caused by depression in New England textile centers, or has education, in the name of progress and enlightenment, prior claim on the money available?

That, in brief, is the problem confronting Lowell, one of the pioneer mill cities of New England.

As Correspondent Sees It

Today, half its factories are idle. Mismanagement, Southern competition and municipal dereliction have all had their part in bringing about pronounced depression, business men say. The city is struggling successfully to change its industrial complexion. Scores of smaller industries have grown up to replace the huge cotton and woolen manufacturing concerns which were for years the economic backbone of the community.

Only the other day the first passenger airplane manufactured in Massachusetts was turned out of the new plane factory here and formally christened by national and state officials. Lowell is "coming back."

A period of retrenchment has set in. The city desires to relieve industry of heavy taxes of the past. Since January 1, 1927, the tax rate has been reduced $5. Mayor Thomas H. Braden, who took office three months ago, has swung the pruning knife "high, wide and handsome" in an effort to keep the tax rate where it is or to bring about a further reduction. Employees in every department have been dropped, loans have been kept at a minimum and the mayor himself has agreed to accept a 20 per cent salary reduction.

Where Rub Comes

Naturally, the economy drive has extended to the schools, over which Superintendent Hugh J. Molloy presides. There, its progress has met a set-back. The entire state is watching the outcome of the battle which has extended even to the highest court of the commonwealth.

The school committee, of which Mayor Braden is an ex officio member, submitted a budget of $1,419,000 at the beginning of the year. The mayor promptly slashed $100,000 from this figure, and the city council, which has the final say on general expenditures, as promptly approved the slash. Superintendent Molloy and members of the school committee immediately protested that the schools would have to close before the end of the year.

"Let them close," said Mayor Braden. "The law doesn't demand that they be open all year."

"The city is spending only 20 per cent of its total annual outlay on its schools," retorted Superintendent Molloy. "There should be no curtailment at the expense of enlightenment."

"There are too many frills and fads and too many unnecessary teachers in the schools," Mayor Braden persisted. "By careful management the department can run for the entire year on the budget I have followed."

There the matter rests. The "show-down" will come in the autumn when the funds will have gotten low.

Meanwhile, an effort is being made to have it definitely established whether the school committee has the final say as to how much money it shall spend, or the mayor and city council. Thus far, not even the courts have ruled on the question satisfactorily.

XENIA INVITED TO JOIN HIGH SCHOOLS IN FORENSIC LEAGUE

Xenia Central and Miami High Schools have been invited to become members of the Miami Valley Forensic League, formed at a recent meeting in Troy by representatives of the Piquette, Troy, Greenville and Sidney High Schools.

It is hoped to make it a six-school league and the invitations to Xenia and Miami were extended in order that the league may contain the same schools as the Miami Valley Athletic League.

L. E. Jackson, Troy debate coach, has been elected president of the league and Gerald Quick, Sidney coach, has been chosen secretary.

It is the league's purpose to sponsor debates, oratorical contests and declamation contests.

The first series of debates is scheduled for the first two weeks of next March and the first oratorical contest will be held at Sidney sometime next spring.

Appropriate trophies will be awarded to the winning schools in each event.

It is thought probable by Xenia Central school authorities that Xenia will enter the league.

Mount Machine Guns

Forty planes of the first Selfridge field pursuit squadron are being hurriedly equipped with machine guns. Major Ralph Royce, commander of the squadron, says that this action can not be linked with the Mexican border trouble. However, since planes are never so equipped except for battle practice, the rumor persists that they are being prepared in the event of a sudden dash to the border.

TIME WAS when motorists were fearful that the gasoline they bought might be the last few gallons out of the storage or dealer tank.

Today motorists need have no such fear. For the petroleum industry of today employs every possible device to protect the motorist against gasoline impurities.

The best practice of the petroleum industry dictates that each modern storage tank shall be "bottomless." Outlet pipes, from which the gasoline is drawn, are above the bottom of the tank. Thus it is impossible to draw off the last few gallons remaining in storage or dealer tanks. Any sediment unavoidably accumulated in the tank sinks to the bottom, below the outlet pipe level, and cannot reach the motorist's own gasoline tank.

The Standard Oil Company of Ohio employs the most modern and approved methods known to the oil industry. Sohio and Red Crown gasolines are produced in the most modern refineries so far perfected. You may buy these or any other Standard Oil (Ohio) products in full confidence that every detail of their manufacture and distribution meets the strictest requirements of Petroleum's highest standards. Standard Oil (Ohio) products are on sale not only at the familiar Red-White-and-Blue Standard Service Stations, but also at thousands of dealers' stores and garages throughout Ohio.

RED CROWN GASOLINE
We make Red Crown in the same great plants that produce Sohio, because our customers are educated to a better grade of fuel than ordinary motor gasolines such as we might buy in the open market.

Treated

A seed treatment which will add 7 bushels an acre to your yield, is certainly worth using!

That is what happened on Overlook Farms, in Illinois, where the above photo was taken, when seed corn was treated with Du Bay Semesan Jr., the most effective dust disinfectant.

Root rot infections which result in crop losses by seedling blight, plant barrenness, nubbin-bearing stalks, rotted roots and down corn are controlled by Semesan Jr. U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Circular 34 reports that Semesan Jr. gave increased average yields of 1.9 bushels per acre with nearly disease-free seed, and 12 bushels with diseased seed.

Each day's delay in planting corn after normal planting time, means a loss of about 1 bushel per acre in yield. Semesan Jr. makes early planting safer by protecting seed against rotting even when the soil is cold and wet. Semesan Jr. costs less than 3c an acre for field corn. Applied easily and quickly as a dust at the rate of 2 ounces per bushel of seed field and sweet corn.

It kills only disease; harmless to seed. Ask us for free Semesan Jr. pamphlet.

XENIA INVITED TO JOIN HIGH SCHOOLS IN FORENSIC LEAGUE

Xenia Central and Miamisburg High Schools have been invited to become members of the Miami Valley Forensic League, formed at a recent meeting in Troy by representatives of the Piqua, Troy, Greenville and Sidney High Schools.

It is hoped to make it a six-school league and the invitations to Xenia and Miamisburg were extended in order that the league may contain the same schools as the Miami Valley Athletic League. L. E. Jackson, Troy debate coach, has been elected president of the league and Gerald Quick, Sidney coach, has been chosen secretary.

It is the league's purpose to sponsor debates, oratorical contests and declamation contests.

The first series of debates is scheduled for the first two weeks of next March and the first oratorical contest will be held at Sidney sometime next spring. Appropriate trophies will be awarded to the winning schools in each event.

It is thought probable by Xenia Central school authorities that Xenia will enter the league.

Mount Machine Guns

Forty planes of the first Selfridge field pursuit squadron are being hurriedly equipped with machine guns. Major Ralph Royce, commander of the squadron, says that this action can not be linked with the Mexican border trouble. However, since planes are never so equipped except for battle practice, the rumor persists that they are being prepared in the event of a sudden dash to the border.

SPRING VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Whitacre were in an automobile accident Sunday. Mrs. Whitacre was cut about the face and Mr. Whitacre suffered three fractured ribs.

Mr. Ethan Walton, of Dayton, is spending a few days with relatives here.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Holland deeply sympathize with them in the death of their little son, Arnold. The babe was a year old April 26. Whooping cough with complications was the cause of his death.

Mrs. Will Wakely is quite sick at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Haines.

Mrs. Neil Compton and daughters spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Gorham of Xenia.

Mrs. G. V. Sims visited a few days last week with her mother, Mrs. Underwood of Dayton. Mrs.

Underwood has been quite sick but is slowly getting better.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hood of near Dayton and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Darnell of Dayton were the week end guests of Mrs. Jane Hood.

While the M. E. Church is being redecorated, the Methodists are holding their services in the Friends Church.

Miss Pauline Hunt of Dayton is spending a few weeks with her cousin, Mrs. Ruth Benson.

YELLOW SPRINGS

The annual county high school junior-senior banquet was held at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening in the First United Presbyterian Church in Xenia. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. O. B. Folger of Wilmington. Music was under the direction of Miss Mildred Foster of this place. The honors of the Bryan High School class were awarded to Helen Gerhardt. The members of the school board, the high school teachers, the members of the junior class and the honor guests, the seniors, attended the banquet. Miss Dillencourt served as toastmaster and Miss Roberts gave the address for the faculty of the county.

Prof. L. R. Gibbs of Antioch College conducted the services in the Methodist Church Sunday morning. His subject was "Christian Education". Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Patton spent the day in Miamisburg, where they attended services.

Mrs. H. L. Hackett was taken to Xenia to the McClellan Hospital, where she underwent an operation Monday.

Mrs. Ella Elliott, of Cleveland, spent a few days the past week with Misses Harriet and Della Harman.

Miss Mildred Adams who is studying osteopathy in Kirksville,

Mo., is visiting her father, R. H. Adams.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hammer of Dayton, spent Wednesday and Thursday here with Mrs. Weakley.

Mrs. Maria Dadds of Springfield spent Saturday with Mrs. Emma Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burras of North Fairfield, spent the week-end with Mrs. Burras' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Kershner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drake are the parents of a son, born Friday at the Smith Sanatorium.

Mrs. C. S. Sheldon, who spent the winter with relatives in Windham, O., returned home Thursday.

Miss Eureka Meredith, teacher in the Wyoming schools, near Cincinnati, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Meredith near town.

Mrs. H. N. Coe and Mrs. Alfred Swaby entertained a few friends

UNDERGROUND

A LOVE AND MYSTERY STORY
By J. JEFFERSON FARJEON
Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

The plot concerns some weird noises, beneath a supposedly haunted house in Byford Moor. One day, Brown, a romantic young clerk, heard a rough-looking fellow say to another: "After her! And if she's troublesome—don't be particular what you do to her!" Brown trails the girl to the haunted house and disappears from his companions, Rupert and Charlie. Rupert tries to discover the mystery of the house, and why the girl is there. He meets the girl at the village inn and she asks if he can have a few words with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

The directness of Jocelyn Marlowe's request delighted Rupert, but it also surprised him. He had anticipated some preliminary skirmishing. Was it going to be unnecessary, after all, to approach his objective obliquely, and was the girl about to tell her story frankly, and frankly to ask for assistance? He had no guarantee of that yet, but her attitude suggested it.

He expressed his willingness to speak to her, while concealing his eagerness. She thanked him, and proposed the little garden at the back of the hotel.

"It will be quieter there," she said, "and what I want to talk about is—rather private."

"By all means," agreed Rupert, and added conventionally, "I hope you're not in any difficulty, Miss Marlowe?"

"You know my name," she queried, with a faint smile.

"It's written in the register," he answered.

"So it is. But yours isn't."

"Then mine is Rupert Blake. And my friend, who went out just now, is Charlie Cartax."

The introductions over, they passed through the back of the hall into the little sunny garden beyond. A tumble-down summer house, with a couple of hard, rustic chairs, was at the far end of the lawn, and she made for it unashamedly.

"I expect this surprises you a little, Mr. Blake," she began, as she sat down on one of the hard chairs and he took the other.

"A little," Rupert responded, "but not a great deal."

"That's almost a confession."

"It is. To be honest, I'm rather hoping we shall both be in a confessing mood."

She nodded. She made no attempt to suggest she did not understand him. He found her proximity rather distracting, and suddenly decided that he must not be distracted by it. The thought occurred to him, out of the clear blue sky, that efficiency and beauty, combined, might prove a dangerous collaboration to one who too quickly took the virtue of the collaboration for granted. He hated the thought. Still, it came. He waited anxiously for the right to dismiss it.

"Well—who is to confess first?" she asked, after a short pause.

"Will you?" he begged.

"You take it for granted that I have something to confess."

"If you want me to, I'll begin."

"Please."

"Very well. My confession is the confession of a quite well-meaning individual who has allowed himself to be drawn into a somewhat amazing adventure of which you, Miss Marlowe, are the center," he said.

"Yes, I know that," she admitted.

"If you know it, must I go on with my confession?" he asked.

"I'd like you to," she answered.

"Perhaps some of the things you'll tell me I won't know."

"Right! Then do you know this—that you were followed from the restaurant where you had lunch yesterday by two people? One of them wore a check suit, and the other—"

"Was named Brown?"

He stared at her.

"How on earth did you find that out?" he demanded.

"I'll tell you—when I come to my own confession, I'll explain. You can cut out the train journey—"

"Can I?" he ret

EAST END NEWS

MRS. JAMES HARRIS
Correspondent
Tel. 91-R

Mr. Elijah Gilbert, E. Market St., has returned from Dayton where he has taken treatment for fifteen days in the Miami Valley Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bryant, of Cincinnati, in company with their brother, Morris Bryant, were guests Wednesday of relatives here.

The Rev. C. M. Smith and family, of Lorain, O., in company with their grandmother, Mrs. Betty Ballard, were Wednesday visitors of Mrs. Belle Tibbs and son, William, E. Main St. Mrs. Tibbs will leave Thursday night for Sand Springs, Okla., to spend the summer with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Buford and Miss Beulah Tibbs, who is a student in the University of Langston, Okla.

Beginning Tuesday evening, May 7, at 7:30 at the Zion Baptist Church and continuing through Friday, May 10, the deacon groups are sponsoring a bazaar. Each evening there will be a change in program which will be of interest. There will be no admission. You are expected to come and enjoy a feast of good things. Program as follows:

Tuesday night—Come and hear a debate on the subject "Which Has Produced the Most Wonders—the Land or the Water?"

Representatives of the "Possum Run" Debating Society will argue the question and you will miss a hearty laugh if you fail to come. Wednesday—The Seven Ages of Man, a dramatization from Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Thursday—Pantomimes and living pictures. The best of all—a playlet entitled "The Discovery"—a Mother's Day play.

The Rev. F. M. Liggins will preach all day at the Clifton Baptist Church and administer the ordinance of Baptism to five candidates at 12 o'clock.

UNDERGROUND

BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

READ THIS FIRST:

The plot concerns some weird noises, beneath a supposedly haunted house in Byford Moor. One day, Brown, a romantic young clerk, heard a rough-looking fellow say to another: "After her! And if she's troublesome—don't be particular what you do to her!" Brown trails the girl to the haunted house and disappears from his companions, Rupert and Charlie. Rupert tries to discover the mystery of the house, and why the girl is there. He meets the girl at the village inn and she asks if he can have a few words with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

The directness of Jocelyn Marlowe's request delighted Rupert, but it also surprised him. He had anticipated some preliminary skirmishing. Was it going to be unnecessary after all, to approach his objective obliquely, and was the girl about to tell her story frankly, and frankly to ask for assistance? He had no guarantee of that yet, but her attitude suggested it.

He expressed his willingness to speak to her, while concealing his eagerness. She thanked him, and proposed the little garden at the back of the hotel.

"It will be quieter there," she said, "and what I want to talk about is—rather private."

"By all means," agreed Rupert, and added conventionally: "I hope you're not in any difficulty, Miss Marlowe."

"You know my name?" she queried, with a faint smile.

"It's written in the register," he answered.

"So it is. But yours isn't."

"Then mine is Rupert Blake. And my friend, who went out just now, is Charlie Carfax."

The introductions over, they passed through the garden to the hall into the little sunny garden beyond. A tumble-down summer house, with a couple of hard, rustic chairs, was at the far end of the lawn, and she made for it unashamedly.

"I expect this surprises you a little, Mr. Blake," she began, as she sat down on one of the hard chairs and he took the other.

"A little," Rupert responded, "but not a great deal."

"That's almost a confession."

"It is. To be honest, I'm rather hoping we shall both be in a confessing mood."

She nodded. She made no attempt to suggest she did not understand him. He found her proximity rather distracting, and suddenly decided that he must not be distracted by it. The thought occurred to him, out of the clear blue sky, that efficiency and beauty, combined, might prove a dangerous collaboration to one who too quickly took the virtue of the collaboration for granted. He hated to think that.

Still, it came. He waited anxiously for the right to dismiss it.

"Well—who is to confess first?" she asked, after a short pause.

"Will you?" he begged.

"You take it for granted that I have something to confess."

"If you want me to, I'll begin."

"Please."

"Very well. My confession is the confession of a quite well-meaning individual who has allowed himself to be drawn into a somewhat amazing adventure of which you, Miss Marlowe, are the center," he said.

"Yes, I know that," she admitted.

"If you know it, must I go on with my confession?" he asked.

"I'd like you to," she answered. "Perhaps some of the things you'll tell me I won't know."

"Right! Then do you know this—that you were followed from the restaurant where you had lunch yesterday by two people? One of them wore a check suit, and the other—" to have knocked Mr. Brown down?"

He looked at her, suddenly laughed—for the invitation to do so was in her eyes—and then as suddenly grew serious again.

"No, you aren't supposed to have knocked Mr. Brown down," he replied. "Somebody else did that—somebody else who was in the house while we three were there, and while you were there. Perhaps you can give me some idea as to who that somebody was?"

Her eyes had become grave again, also; but she shook her head.

"Go on," she murmured. "What happened after that?"

"After that," he answered, slowly, "somebody stole our car. We found it later a mile up the road."

His eyes were upon her, and she frowned a little.

"I am not supposed to have knocked Mr. Brown down—for which thank you very much—but—am I supposed to have stolen your car?"

"Have you a glove with a button missing?" Rupert challenged her.

The Theater

Eva LeGallienne, director, producer and "leading lady" of the Civic Repertory Theater in Fourteenth St., New York, is making a success of an ideal.

Djuna Barnes, in a recent issue of "The New Yorker," gives an interesting biography of this young actress with such a serious ambition. Eva was born in the suburbs of London, January 11, 1899, the daughter of the poet, Richard Le Gallienne and Julie Norregard, a native of Copenhagen and a newspaper correspondent.

The marriage of the LeGallien-nes broke up after two years. When Eva, at ten, announced her intention to be an actress, her mother placed her in the College Seignie at Paris where she remained until 1912, when she went to England, attended a boarding school and studied at Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree's Academy. She made her London stage debut as a cockney in "The Laughter of Fools." The shattered her opportunities however, and at fifteen she came to America and rented a room in Greenwich Village.

Her father's name in America helped her at the beginning and her first part was given her by Harrison Grey Fiske—that of a colored maid in "M. S. Bolivar's Daughters", in October, 1915. It was the first time in fourteen years that Richard LeGallienne had seen his daughter.

Shortly afterward she appeared in "The Melody of Youth" at a salary of $15 a week and there followed a succession of parts, good, bad and indifferent—on the road with "Mr. Lazarus"; with Faversham at fifty a week in "Lord and Lady Algy"; and in "Mile-a-Minute Kendal".

Joseph Schildkraut at the Gar-rick persuaded Theresa Helburn to produce Molnar's "Lillian" and it was in this that Eva made her first big hit. She followed this with a success in "The Swan", produced by Gilbert Miller. Her worst failure followed in "Jeanne d'Arc" in June, 1925, in Paris. Eva, however, having already seen that the cheap seats were always sold first, conceived the plan of a theater with $1.50 each the top price, observing that people flock to "culture" wherever it is made reasonable.

Returning to the States she failed to obtain a theater on Broadway because of an agreement barring the lowering of prices, and then obtained the old dusty theater on W. Fourteenth St., owned by the United States Trust Co. Before she obtained the theater she produced Fosse's "The Master Builder" and "John Gabriel Borkman" as the Booth Theater and on October 25, 1926 she opened the Civic Repertory Theater with Benevise's "Saturday Night". Matinees sold out at thirty-five cents to a dollar and evening performances brought fifty cents to $1.50 besides the income from supporting memberships. Her first week she took in $3,800 and in the last week of December, 1928, she took in over $9,000.

Her father's name in America helped her in the beginning and her first part was given her by Harrison Grey Fiske—that of a colored maid in "M. S. Bolay's Daughters," in October, 1915. It was the first time in fourteen years that Richard LeGallienne had seen his daughter.

Shortly afterward she appeared in "The Melody of Youth" at a salary of $15 a week and there followed a succession of parts, good, bad and indifferent—on the road with "Mr. Lazarus," with Paversham at fifty a week in "Lord and Lady Algy," and in "Mile-a-Minute Kendal."

Joseph Schildkraut at the Garrick persuaded Theresa Helburn to produce "Lillian" and it was in this that Eva made her first big hit. Eva Le Gallienne has a theory that it takes twenty years for an actor to become something worth seeing. She claims that she does not want to make money, and holds to cheap prices in her theater. She has an ambition to operate such a chain herself.

Her actors get the average Broadway salary, with a twenty weeks guarantee and a thirty-five week season. No one has an understudy and there is neither leading lady nor man. Nor does an actor always remain in his original role for the length of the play, as she shifts her cast when she feels any member is getting stale in his part. No play is rehearsed less than four weeks, there is no prompter and once a play is produced, it is added to the repertoire.

An auxiliary branch, called the Junior Group, was formed in August, 1927 and teaches diction and fencing with the privilege of attending rehearsals. Those who qualify are assigned small parts.

were arraigned before Commissioner Horner that use of the girl decoys was revealed.

The matter was called to Governor Myers' attention and the latter scathingly rebuked the two agents and warned that "this practice will not be tolerated in the future."

Acting Prohibition Commissioner Sam Beetham, in the absence of his father, Commissioner Rupert Beetham, then suspended the agents pending his father's return.

LORAIN, O., May 2.—The Rev. George I. Cooper, director of the Union Rescue Mission here, sent a telegraphic protest to Governor Cooper today against a raid conducted on his home last night and said to have been led by State Dry Agent John Cole who was suspended from the department yesterday.

Cole, with State Dry Agent Little, was suspended for the alleged use of girl decoys in apprehending liquor law violators in Lancaster. Cole's suspension was mailed Tuesday night to the Newell Hotel, Elyria. Little cannot be found.

A party of five raiders invaded Cooper's home, broke in the front door and searched the place for liquor, according to the pastor. Failing to find any, the raiders left, refusing, Cooper said, to answer his questions of whether they were armed with a search warrant.

Sheriff Clarence E. Adams said today that a warrant had been issued for an address near Cooper's home and that the officers had mistaken the number and raided the wrong place.

Adams said Cole and another dry agent, George Baynham, asked assistance of his office in making a series of raids and that fifteen men in all went out on a cleanup crusade last night.

The raiders split up into squads of five and visited addresses against which warrants were issued, he said. He added that Cole and Baynham were in charge but that he did not know whether they visited Cooper's home.

The Rev. Cooper's telegram to Governor Cooper was as follows: "Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning five men entered my parsonage by force. After they had entered I asked who they were. They said officers. When I asked for a warrant they made no reply. They cursed my wife and myself and as a result she is ill at home today."

"I request that an immediate investigation be made as this raid was staged by state agents and deputy sheriffs."

City Solicitor Wesley Grills, of Lorain, today started an investigation of the raid and announced he would go to Columbus at once to see Governor Cooper regarding the matter.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Gazette

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—Twenty-five years ago, down at Hopkins, Mo., were five boys who always ganged together. They went to watermelon stealing expeditions to "Uncle" Jimmy Hepburn's farm, spoke pieces at the same school Friday afternoons, and played winkum and postoffice at the same parties.

Later those five boys came to Kansas City and never happened to be together at one time in the last twenty-five years. All of them became men of affairs.

Recently, one of them, now federal Judge Merrill E. Otis, sent out this "court order":

"Putting aside all excuses, you are hereby commanded to be present in your proper person at the residence of the undersigned, 6417 Jefferson St., Kansas City, Mo., Thursday at 6:30 p. m. then and there to suffer such punishment as may be inflicted upon you."
